8 KILLED; FIREBUG BLAMED

Family of Five Perishes

Trapped in their third-floor apartment, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wassell (above) and their three children, Susan, 6; Peter, 5, and Linda, 3, died in a fire which swept the Colonial Chambers in Belvidere st., Back Bay. Three other persons were killed, 12 rescued.

The Belvidere st. apartment house fire which claimed eight lives this morning, and two other almost concurrent Back Bay blazes, were "clearly" the work of a firebug, Fire Comr. Codman announced today after an at-the-scenes inquiry. All three fires originated under stairways and the one in Belvidere st. gave off an acrid odor at the outset, indicating the possible use of chemicals or other highly combustible liquids, he said.

Public Gyped Billion in Meat

WASHINGTON, April 10 (INS)—The American Meat Institute estimated today that black markets and government subsidies cost United States housewives an extra two billion dollars in meat costs annually. Robert J. Eggert, associate marketing director for the institute, told the Senate agriculture and forestry committee that 83 per cent of the meat stores in 11 cities throughout the country were charging an average of 29 per cent over ceiling prices for meat late in February.

Boston Sugar Workers Hint At Peace Talk

While New England housewives, bakers and hotel managers mapped plans to cope with a sugar famine, and refinery workers prepared to strike on Saturday, the current shortage was blamed today by a producer on what he termed a federal government mistake.

The strike was called for Saturday by both AFL and CIO union heads in Washington, representing 7000 workers, of whom 1000 are employed in the two Boston refineries.

The action is subject to ratification by local unions, and the 600 South Boston union members, through a spokesman, announced they are "still open to arbitration." They will vote tomorrow on the strike announcement.

Robert E. Sullivan, executive secretary of the New England Bakers' Ass'n, said many of the 2300 bakeries he represents will be forced to shut down by Saturday for lack of sugar.

Joseph F. Abbott, president of the American Sugar Refining Co., said the strike, scheduled to close seven East Coast refineries, was caused by the action of the federal government in stopping shipment of raw sugar to Boston and other North Atlantic ports March 28.

"Shipment of some 12,900 tons of sugar, intended for our Boston refinery, was cancelled," he explained.

"The reason was the apparent belief by the government that a strike was coming. We have refined and delivered all the raw sugar we have received."

Garrett Sues Hub For $14,700 Pay

WORCESTER, April 10—Oliver B. Garrett, former Boston liquor squad czar, was contest in June with the City of Boston for $14,700 back pension pay he claims in Worcester Superior Court is due him, it was disclosed today at a preliminary hearing.

Garrett claims Boston owes him the money as pensioned police man from June 1930, to June 1944. He said a legal pension for "permanent disability," granted by the police commissioner, approved by the Mayor and paid from October, 1929, until May, 1930, was stopped.

Eggert added that the upward trend was continuing because a survey in Washington, considered an average meat price city, showed that 10 per cent more of the dealers were overcharging on March 26 and 27, a month after the original check.

Eggert said the institute employed two independent market research agencies to survey the meat price situation and that the agencies used "housewife shoppers" to buy meat in 1803 stores in the 11 cities for an analysis of prices, as compared to OPA ceilings.

Cities checked were New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington, Houston, Tex.; Denver, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Memphis, Providence and Newark.

The "housewife shoppers" bought meats in all types of stores in all sections of the 11 cities.

Worst overcharges were found in New York, where one cut of meat was purchased at 262 per cent over ceiling price.

Average prices throughout the nation, Eggert declared, were 20 per cent over OPA ceilings, and in the entire survey only one case was found where meat was sold below the official price. This was in Milwaukee.

Highest overcharges, when meat was classified by cuts, were found in the so-called low-priced pieces. Best round steak cost an average of 31.1 per cent over ceiling in the 11 cities, he said, and hamburger was 23.2 per cent above official price.

5 of 1st Lady's Bridge Guests Fly to Capital

KANSAS CITY, April 10 (AP)—Five excited members of Bees Truman's Tuesday Bridge Club boarded a plane today to keep a bridge date at the White House this week-end.

In the luggage which their husbands patiently loaded on the plane was a gift for the First Lady—an antique gold bracelet engraved "To Bees, from the Bridge Club, 1946."

The other five members of the club who will have a house party at the White House, this week-end at Mrs. Truman's invitation left earlier this week by auto.

While the women are keeping their bridge club date with Mrs. Truman, their husbands plan a get-together of their own—a stag party Saturday night.

Poles Charge Before UN Franco Is Peril to Peace

NEW YORK, April 10 (AP)—Poland asked the United Nations Security Council today to take action against the Franco regime in Spain on the ground it had already threatened world peace and is a haven for Nazis, their assets and German scientists "devising new means of warfare." The Polish appeal, filed by Ambassador Oscar Lange with Secretary General Trygve Lie, piled up another big political issue for

25 Million Japs Vote; Many Women

TOKYO, April 10 (AP)—Twenty-five million Japs—led by a surprisingly large number of women who lined up early at polling places—today elected a post-war government in their first free election in generations. It was a national holiday to encourage voting.

The Tokyo vote was 65 to 70 per cent of those eligible—slightly higher than the confused and semi-restricted 1837 election, but considerably less than the 86 per cent under the Hideki Tojo coercion that marked the 1942 voting.

A slightly higher trend was perceptible in several near-by communities. Women voters outnumbered men in surprisingly heavy, early turnouts in five rural communities near Tokyo and appeared at Tokyo's major booths in increasing numbers.

3 Flee Blaze In Somerville

Three persons fled today when flames roared through a block of stores at Medford st. and Partidge ave., Somerville, sweeping upward into apartment above. Two alarms were sounded.

Driven from their homes were Mrs. Margaret Consolo and her daughter, Mary, 25, and Sandra Costello, 10.

The blaze started in an upholstery shop and spread rapidly to two stores on either side, one a barbershop and the other a bag and supply store.

Firemen quickly brought the fire under control.

Big 4 Foreign Ministers May End Treaty Deadlock

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—Authoritative American and British sources predicted today that the foreign ministers of Russia, France, Britain and the United States, would break the deadlock on European peace treaties when they meet in Paris April 25. These sources acknowledged for the first time that all hope of holding the Paris peace conference May 1 had vanished, and two weeks the peace-enforcement body even before it had struggled from under the weight of the Iranian case. The next round in the Iranian case will come at 3 p. m. Monday, a secret meeting of council members decided today, when Russia will urge and the United States and Britain will oppose dismissal of Iran's complaints against Russia.

Lange had delayed filing of the Spanish case until today in order to give the Russian demand for dismissal of Iran's complaints priority. The Spanish debate thus cannot begin until next week, since the next public meeting is Monday.

Decision on the next public meeting date was reached at a secret session called primarily to discuss the question of where United Nations should establish its regular interim headquarters—at Hunter College in the Bronx or at a big modern factory building at Lake Success, L. I.

On Russia's demand that the council wash its hands of the Iranian case there appeared to be mounting opposition. Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala informed the council yesterday Iran wanted the case kept on the agenda.

Salt on Tail Captures Bird

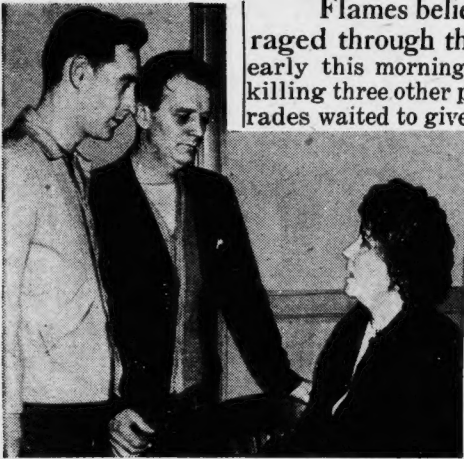

WAUKESHA, Wis., April 10 (AP)—Three-year-old Geraldine McClurg's wish, as she watched some birds in her back yard, was that she had a bird for a pet.

Geraldine's aunt suggested her wish could be fulfilled if she sprinkled a little salt on the tail of the bird she wanted.

"Then," she told Geraldine, "you'll be able to catch it."

The youngster followed her advice. In a few minutes she came running into her house proudly exhibiting a sparrow.

Back Bay Flames Kill 8; Girl Dying; Hunt Firebug

Telephone Workers, Using Ladder, Saved Her Life in Hub Fire
INP by Harold Williams

Flames believed to have been touched off by a firebug's maniacal impulse raged through the four-story Colonial Chambers in Belvidere st., Back Bay, early this morning, wiping out a family of five, including three small children, and killing three other persons, one a policeman who died at City Hospital while three comrades waited to give him their blood. Twelve more occupants were taken to safety after dramatic rescues, still others escaped over rooftops, one woman was given an emergency operation at City Hospital and an exodus from an adjoining building was marked by leaps from windows.

The fire, which caused damage of $10,000 and was one of three originating under odd circumstances in the Back Bay within two hours, brought death to:

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wasseil and their three children, Susan, 6; Peter, 5, and Linda, 3.

Frank LaPete Saturday, his mother, Mrs. Thomas O'Brien of Morgan st., Springfield, disclosed after the fire.

Patrolman Maher's superiors ordered an investigation to determine how he was fatally hurt. They said he was not on duty. Capt. Louis DiSessa of the Warren ave. station and Capt. Leo Masuret of the Back Bay are directing the probe. One homicide squad man has been assigned to it.

Suicide's Death Diary Revealed

Richard P. Gale, Jr., 21, brilliant M. I. T. student and a veteran of three years' Pacific service, took his own life by monoxide poisoning in Wilmington but left behind for science a carefully penciled description of how it feels to die.

Gale, son of a former Minnesota congressman, was found in his automobile, parked in a lonely Wilmington lane and rigged with a rubber hose for suicide. He recently returned to resume his studies at M. I. T., accompanied by his wife, the former Mary Cowies, and their baby son. They had been living in Beacon st., Back Bay.

The sensation of carbon monoxide death was described on seven pages of a notebook, found in his lap. It reads:

"Terrific smell of gas fumes. Imagine the back of a garage smells this way. I wonder how long ago Belvidere was. That was a nice place. Like a nice place. What do we mean by nice, I wonder? Closest to our hearts? Perhaps. Nice, swell, awful, all misused and make people understand each other. Much less death. 18:34 (this is military time and corresponds to 6:34 p. m. standard.)

"It's getting rather dark to write. That main bearing thumps. Not regularly. Eyes smart a bit. Was hard to drive. Afraid somebody will come by now. There are frogs or night birds in a pond near by. Frogs would be cold at this time of year. This is slow. 18:36 (6:36 p. m.).

"Engine sounds smooth. Faculties seem to be sharpened temporarily. Eyes still smart considerably. This is a quiet place out here. I don't believe there are any houses in sight. One man objected when I stopped on his property a while back. Can't blame him much, really. Some people have more perseverance than others. Some have very much more. What is the proof? 2 equals 4? Does it involve dropping a root? I believe that it does. Seems that there are more gas fumes in here than anything else right now. Seem to be getting sleepy. Muscles used in writing with R hand feel well.

used and in need of a rest. I'm afraid that somebody will come.

"This is not a negative, my wanting someone to come instead. 18:42 (6:42 p. m.). Wonder where that wise pilot is? The ex-flying sergeant that was stationed at Hamilton before the war? Missed Bataan shipment by a few days while he was in Camden Medical School. Joints feel funny.

"Elbows esp. and wrists. Engine is smooth. Where is the will? Last time it pulled me through under the armpits. Now and inside. I imagine this all has been pulled before. Through chest now. No particular desire to get out. I wonder about the hose connection and the tape.

"Would be surprised if someone walked by the door. Seems to be getting the better of me fast. 18:45 (6:45 p. m.). It's just been 15 minutes now. I wonder what it is going to be like? Chest filling up fast. Seems to be terrific pressure first. Going ... go ... go.

Here the description ended in a scrawl.

Gale's last assignment had been bringing strait jacket cases back from the front and it was believed the experience may have led to his suicide. The body of the victim is to be shipped to Minneapolis.

Mrs. Gale also plans to return to that city, where her father is a newspaper publisher.

Muni, Anne Baxter Testify on Murder

LOS ANGELES, April 10 (AP)—Actor Paul Muni and Actress Anne Baxter told a coroner's jury today that a studio party last Wednesday, celebrating completion of their latest picture, was a dull affair and that they were unable to throw any light on how Edward Gray, 31, studio employe, suffered fatal injuries following the entertainment.

"I am afraid I can be of little help," testified Muni. "I left the party at 7:45 p. m. with Mrs. Muni to go home."

"What was called a gay party didn't seem very gay to me. If that was a gay party, I wonder what a dull one is like. Everybody was very tired."

Muni said he had not known Gray, whose crushed body was found about midnight at the General Service Studio, near a 65-foot high backdrop depicting a stairway to hell. Some 250 persons who had worked on the film "Angel on My Shoulder" had attended the party.

Miss Baxter, attired in a simple black dress, gray hat and gray gloves, said she went to the party alone and departed about 9 o'clock.

Asked if she could throw any light on the circumstances of Gray's death, she replied:

"I wish I could. I know nothing about it."

Muni and Miss Baxter both said they had observed no fighting or intoxication at the party.

Gray's widow, Mrs. Donna Gray, who had not attended the party, testified she could give no clue as to how her husband met his death.

A spokesman assured that there are fireworks in the offing, declaring:

"We are highly confident of the outcome. Mr. MacDonald will have plenty to say and some of those things are going to hurt. We are highly confident that a removal will not be voted."

Comr. MacDonald left nothing to supposition, however. He said: "If there should be a removal, I will fight such action all the way to the Supreme Court."

Before adjournment came, due to today's meeting of the executive council, the prosecution entered testimony that contractors had been given access to plans and specifications on projects of the department.

Here the defense scored its most telling argument when it disclosed that the plans had been published in a trade publication for contractors and that for 20 years contractors had specifications made available to them in the department.

Flies 11,000 Mi. To Wed at 53

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 11 (Thursday) (AP)—Diminutive Miss Beatrice Deramore, 53, arrived today after an 11,000-mile flight from England to marry a childhood sweetheart she had not seen for 21 years.

Miss Deramore said she spent her life saving to join Taylor, who left England in 1925. The wedding is set for April 20.

Box-Car Pioneers On Move Again

MERCED, Cal., April 10 (AP)

French said increases between 25 and 30 per cent on a flat percentage basis must be granted if the road is to continue as a solvent corporation.

"I did the best I could," Patrolman Edward W. Woods, 27, said with modesty today on his return to the Jamaica Plain station after losing a race with the stork.

Woods was "end man" on the police ambulance sent to a Jamaica st., Jamaica Plain, home to rush Mrs. Mildred Lake, 32, to the Forest Hills Hospital for the momentarily expected arrival of a baby.

The stork caught up with the ambulance before it arrived at the hospital and Woods, a veteran of almost four years in the armed forces, went to work with a will.

At the hospital door, Woods gave Mrs. Lake and the new passenger, a seven-pound girl, to doctors' and nurses' care. Mother and daughter are doing fine.

Strike Picture Across Nation

By Associated Press

Efforts to settle the 10-day-old soft coal strike suffered a setback today when John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers' negotiating committee walked out on wage conferences.

Union spokesmen said the miners' representative would not renew negotiations until the producers agreed to discuss a welfare fund and improved safety conditions.

On the brighter side an 80-day-old strike of 30,000 CIO International Harvester Co. employees was settled.

Hopes faded for an early end of the 10-week-old strike of 10,000 employees at the American Brass Co. plant in Waterbury, Ct., as negotiations broke down.

A strike by 67 AFL bus drivers and mechanics employed by the City Bus Lines, Pontiac, Mich., virtually cut off public transportation for the city's 67,000 residents.

Industry Split Over Kennedy Commerce Plan

Bay State industry both supported and opposed today the proposal that the State create a $1,000,000-a-year department of commerce.

Favoring the proposal—a recommendation of a special commission headed by former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy—was Frank L. Tucker, who spoke for the Boston Chamber of Commerce in the name of industry.

His spokesmanship was challenged, however, by Rep. John E. Powers of Boston, who said the Associated Industries of Massachusetts had prepared a brief stating opposition to the bill. Tucker then countered that industry generally favors the proposal.

Kennedy was an interested listener at the hearing and is scheduled to speak in behalf of the measure later.

Rep. Roy Smith, chairman of the House committee on ways and means, told the group that the state faces a $10,000,000 deficit this year and urged proponents to also suggest some way to raise the money for the program.

Another in favor was Raymond F. O'Connell, counsel for the special commission, who said that Massachusetts was in danger of losing even more plants to New York State. He said Gov. Dewey had contacted industries here extolling the alleged advantages of moving to New York. He said capital investments in Massachusetts dropped from $2,800,000,000 in 1922 to $1,700,000,000 in 1938.

"We need a state department of commerce," he said. "In the boom years of 1927 and 1928 all states gained in employment except Massachusetts, which lost jobs."

Others favoring the project were Ralph E. Flanders, former president of the Federal Reserve Bank and Lawrence F. Whittemore, the president now.

Crowds Storm Oratory Finals At Faneuil Hall

By BERT FORD

Amid a setting of historic and dramatic significance to Boston and its youth of today, 26 young high school students, champions from their respective public and parochial schools, gathered today for the Boston finals in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest: "Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States."

Flanking the platform of the "Cradle of Liberty" colorful with its flags of nation, state and city, the 65-piece Boston Public High School Symphony Orchestra played a stirring program of martial and patriotic airs, climaxed by the national anthem.

The doors opened at 1 p. m., with a large throng already waiting—parents and relatives of youthful contestants, fellow-students, teachers, together with members of the clergy and religious orders.

The contestants—"cream of the crop" of Boston's schoolboy and schoolgirl orators, were in an adjoining office where Judge Leo P. Doherty, chairman of the afternoon contest, presided over the drawings for the order of speaking.

First student to draw was Hilda Marie Tracy of Alban st., Dorchester, representing St. Gregory's High School. Amid laughter, she drew No. 13, but that didn't daunt her.

"I'm not superstitious," she said. Drawing first speaking place was Juliet O'Leary of Newcastle rd., Brighton, representing St. Columbkille's High School. The next five places—the orators were heard in groups of six, were drawn in the following order:

Dorothy Insoff, Intervale st., Roxbury, Jeremiah E. Burke High School; Paul Robsham, Larch st., Brighton, Brighton High School; Valerie Edgar, Myrtle st., Boston, St. Patrick's High School; Frederick Long, Gate of Heaven High School, and Margaret Murphy, Leedsville st., Dorchester, Girls' Latin School.

The young contestants appeared confident. They agreed that the interest and inspiration provided by the subject of the contest and the thrill of being chosen the winners in their individual schools, had more than compensated for their long hours of studying the life and times of the great fighting general, soldier in war and in peace, President Jackson.

The exercises were officially opened by Judge Doherty, who had already met the contestants, explaining the general procedure. He welcomed them as winners from their respective schools, and paid tribute to the patriotic enterprise, and to its aim and purpose as an education in citizenship and an inspiration to today's youth. Miss Jean Evans of Brighton, well-known Boston singer, volunteer USO entertainer during the war, and an employee of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The judges, sitting at varied points among the audience that jammed the hall, were Dean Mary Murray of the Mass. School of Art; Dr. Dennis C. Haley, assistant superintendent, Boston Public Schools; Maj. Jackson Holtz, assistant U. S. Atty.; Laurence Curtis, prominent Boston lawyer and national vice-commander of the Disabled American Veterans, and John Lally of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, member of the American Legion Oratorical Commission.

Conducting the musical program was Joseph A. Troncone, assistant supervisor of music in the Boston public schools.

Evicted, Divided, Cambridge Family of 6 Seeks New Home

Loser in a lively scrimmage to hold his apartment against the maneuverings of a constable enforcing an eviction order, Willard McSorley tackled the more formidable problem today, of finding a new home for his wife and four children. McSorley spent the night with one neighbor, his wife went to the home of an aunt with Olive, 6, and Dorothy, three weeks old, while another neighbor took in the other children, Michael, 13, and Elaine, 18. They were forced out of a house in Chestnut st., Cambridge.

Constable Allen Korb of Massachusetts ave., armed with the called police, who provided the eviction notice which had been granted to Landlord Pasquale Pattacchiola, was refused admission to the McSorley apartment, so went around to the back door. McSorley and the constable then entered into a lively argument that ended when Korb necessary protection to serve the eviction notice.

But McSorley's troubles had only started. While Korb was calling the police his wife, who had only returned from the hospital two weeks ago after giving birth to the baby, collapsed and medical attention had to be called.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The Senate, by a vote of 41 to 33, today struck from the veterans' emergency housing bill a provision to fix ceiling prices on existing homes at the first resale level.

Writ Stills Phone Insults In Night

Annoyed no end by his former chauffeur's nocturnal telephone calls, Jacob Jacobson of Marshall st., Brookline, a lumber dealer, today brought a bill of complaint in Middlesex Superior Equity Court asking that Charles F. Stone of Medford be restrained from calling him on the telephone at all hours of the night.

In his complaint Jacobson said when the phone is answered the party at the other end "used vile language and insulting names." The lumberman said he and members of his family had recognized Stone's voice. Stone, he said, was his chauffeur until discharged last July.

Recently, the bill set forth, women have been calling in the middle of the night asking "when are you going to put him (Stone) back to work?" They, too, used "vile language."

Jacobson asked the court to issue a restraining order against Stone and to assess damages caused "the health" of his family. Judge Charles C. Cabot issued a temporary restraining order and set April 18 for hearing.

Downtown Tax Realty Sold Low

Five pieces of downtown real estate with a total assessed valuation of $1,550,000, recently taken over by the city for nonpayment of taxes, were sold at auction today for $728,500.

The auction was conducted by Irving Lewis, chairman of the board of real estate commissioners, who served without fee.

Only one parcel sold for more than its assessed value, a six-story building in Boylston st., between Arlington and Berkeley, assessed at $105,000. It went for $117,500 to Abbott N. Kahn, 27-year-old naval veteran with real estate offices in Tremont st.

A five-story structure in Park st., opposite the Common, assessed for $175,000, was sold to Karl H. Healer, a jeweler in the building, for $62,000.

Nathan Sharaf, chain restaurant operator, paid $45,000 for a five-story building assessed at $75,000.

Arthur Shactman, Washington st. real estate man, successfully bid $279,000 for an 11-story building in Washington st. assessed for $700,000. He identified himself as a syndicate representative.

Max R. Kardman, a resident of the Continental Hotel, Cambridge, who said he was acting for Chicago real estate interests, paid $225,000 for an 11-story Devonshire st. building extending back to Arch st. and assessed at $500,000.

Mothers Picket School Strike

DEARBORN, 10-11, April 10 (AP)—Mothers of some of the 300 striking pupils of Brainerd School volunteered for two-hour picket duty today to "keep the children from becoming unruly" while they press demands for reinstatement of ousted Principal Robert Blasler.

Blasler was dismissed Monday night by the five-member school board for "incompetency and lack of discipline," according to Board President Jack Beadie.

Senate to Debate British Loan

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The Senate banking committee voted 14 to 5 today to send the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan to the floor for debate.

The action was announced by Sen. Barkley (D.) of Kentucky after a closed meeting. Barkley predicted the Senate would pass it "by a substantial majority."

These proposals were rejected: By Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio—To give Great Britain $1,250,000,000 outright provided the money be spent in the United States.

By Sen. McFarland (D.) of Arizona—To require Great Britain to turn over to the United States permanently the bases now used by this country on a 99-year lease.

By Sen. Caphart—To set up a $1,500,000,000 credit for Britain against which she could borrow up to the extent of the annual deficit between her imports and exports.

Deer Island Escapee Captured in Waltham

William Browers, 19, of Paterson, N. J., one of two youths who escaped from Deer Island early yesterday, was picked up today by Waltham police on a charge of intoxication and was later turned over to George F. A. Mulcahy, master of Deer Island.

Lawrence Lewey, 20, of Phipps st., Charlestown, who escaped with Browers, is still at large.

Toy Gun Fails

LAWRENCE, April 10—Brandishing a toy gun, a boy in his early teens tried to hold up a Broadway variety store today but was thwarted by the proprietor, Nee Del Pozzo.

Del Pozzo said the boy, not over 14, demanded the contents of his cash register. On a pretext of handing over the money, Del Pozzo grabbed the pistol from the boy's hand, whereupon the youngster fled.

Shoe Men See Higher Ceilings

With the close of New England Shoe Market Week here, officials predicted that prices will be noticeably higher next fall for footwear. Manufacturers forecast that present shoe price ceilings will be boosted substantially. With prospective shoe production pegged at an all-time high of 190 million pairs in 1946, demand for men's shoes is up 50 to 100 per cent. Maxwell Field, executive vice-president of the New England Shoe and Leather Ass'n estimated after a survey of the 750 exhibitors.

In a dozen industry parties, the shoe fair's 3000 visitors will bid a gala farewell to the market week festivities tonight. Largest of the functions are the traditional "210 Associates" banquet in the ballroom of Hotel Statler and the Shoe Travellers' Association party at the Parker House.

500,000 Soviet P.W. Dead Listed

NUERNBERG, Germany, April 10 (AP)—The Russian prosecution introduced documentary evidence today that 500,000 Soviet prisoners died in German custody in the last four months of 1941 and that many thousands more were too broken physically to be useful as laborers.

The Russians, levelling their charges at 22 ranking Germans on trial as war criminals, read from the minutes of a meeting of the German ministry of economics held Feb. 23, 1942:

"Of 3.9 million Russians once in our custody, there are only 1.3 million now available for work. Five hundred thousand were dead in the four months up to January, 1942. At this moment there are only 400,000 working. However, it is possible that this figure can be raised by 100,000 if the current typhus epidemic relents."

Judge Brown's Funeral Friday

Funeral services for Judge Nelson P. Brown, 67, acting chief justice of the Superior Court, who died at Massachusetts General Hospital from a heart attack suffered at the Suffolk County courthouse, will be held at the Old South Church, Copley sq., at 2 p. m. Friday.

Meanwhile, today tributes continued to pour in from his associates on the bench and his colleagues in the law profession. Judge Brown, named to head the superior court in the absence of Chief Justice John P. Higgins when the latter went to Tokyo to preside at the war crimes trials, collapsed as he was about to enter the courtroom.

A native of Cambridge, graduate of Dartmouth College and Harvard Law School, Judge Brown served as city solicitor of Everett, assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, and first assistant attorney general.

He was appointed to the superior bench in 1918, when only 39 years old, to become one of the youngest judges in the Commonwealth at that time.

Judge William A. Burns of Pittsfield, now presiding at Pittsfield, is the senior member of the superior court and will probably become acting chief justice.

Fireman Dies In Fall Of Burning Theater

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 10 (AP) — A general alarm fire swept six or eight downtown buildings today, killing one fireman and injuring several others. An entire block in the business district was threatened.

5% Debentures Due 1950

Cities Service Company is calling $35,000,000 principal amount of its 5% Debentures due 1950 for redemption on June 1, 1946, at 102. This amount constitutes so large a proportion of the total of such series outstanding that a substantial number of the holders thereof will be affected.

After June 1, 1946 no further interest will accrue upon such Debentures as are called for payment on that date.

The individual numbers of all Debentures called for redemption may be obtained from the Company or from the Trustee, The Chase National Bank, 11 Broad St., New York 15, N. Y.

This notice is published as a service to all persons affected. It is not intended nor is it to be construed as affecting the formal legal notice of redemption.

NOW...1,650,000 BLUE CROSS MEMBERS

This nonprofit plan today enables 2 out of 5 in Massachusetts to avoid fear of hospital bills.
ARE YOU AND YOURS PROTECTED?

IN 1937 Blue Cross was an idea in the minds of a few hospital, medical, business, and civic leaders in Massachusetts.

THE IDEA: a nonprofit plan by which Massachusetts citizens would organize voluntarily to protect themselves against hospital bills for a few cents a day.

As of January 1944, Blue Cross had only 616,000 members. Since then the idea has spread like wildfire.

Today 1,650,000 Massachusetts people—2 out of every 5—enjoy voluntary Blue Cross protection. And new members are joining Massachusetts Blue Cross at the rate of 50,000 a month.

Already, more than 400,000 have had hospital bills paid for them

In the eight short years of its existence, Blue Cross has paid more than $20,000,000.00 in hospital bills for its members in Massachusetts.

Payments to hospitals last year alone exceeded $7,000,000.00.

Welcome as these payments were to members who had to be hospitalized, the benefits were also important to 14,000 Massachusetts employers who now co-operate in making Blue Cross protection available to their associates. It goes without saying that healthy, worry-free, protected employees help create a business that is healthy too.

48 cities and towns have enrolled

Through its plan of Community Enrollment, Blue Cross has made protection available to the entire populations of 48 Massachusetts towns and cities. Community Enrollment will be conducted in 85 cities during 1946. Thus Blue Cross also is reaching thousands of self-employed and unemployed people who are unable to join through employee groups.

Ask a neighbor about Blue Cross

The chances are a next-door neighbor is a Blue Cross member. And it is quite likely that he has already had a hospital bill paid by Blue Cross. If so, he can tell you better than anyone else how much Blue Cross helps when illness strikes.

HOW TO JOIN BLUE CROSS

If there already is a Blue Cross group where you work, and you are not a member, do these two things:

- 1) Send in the coupon below for complete information. No obligation.

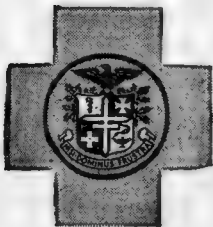

- 2) See your manager or personnel director immediately to find out when new members may be added to your group.

If no Blue Cross group exists, but there are as many as four other employees in your company, you can start this protection for yourself and family, provided an adequate percentage of your fellow workers joins with you. In this case, ask your employer to help you form a group. Fill in the coupon below and mail it to us so that we can send complete information to you and your employer.

If you are self-employed, unemployed, or work in an establishment of less than 5 people, fill in the coupon below and mail to us requesting a Non-Group Application for individual or family membership. Also watch your local newspapers for announcements of Community Enrollment in your town.

JOIN BLUE SHIELD, TOO

Blue Shield pays your physician for surgery and maternity care in hospitals, just as Blue Cross pays hospital bills. Two out of three hospital patients need the special protection against physicians' bills offered at low cost by Blue Shield. To get this additional protection, join a group where you work. If there are 5 or more employees, write Blue Shield for details. Same address as Blue Cross.

Blue Cross

is the only nonprofit plan sponsored by the leading hospitals of Massachusetts and the nation

Over 500,000 in Massachusetts will go to the hospital this year!

MAIL THIS COUPON TODAY. It may save you a hospital bill!

Curley Pledges Park Revivals

Mayor Curley has given his assurance that two long-neglected city parks in South Boston will be rehabilitated at once, one at the intersection of N and Second sts., the other at D and Fifth sts., Sully J. Guaragna, peninsula civic leader, announced today.

Guaragna said it had been brought to the mayor's attention that the sites had been given so little care that they were devoid of grass and generally in "deplorable" condition.

He said Curley also had promised to order repairs at the shower baths in the municipal building, Broadway.

Minute of Silence On FD Death Date

At 4:35 p. m. Friday, all Bay State citizens are asked to cease work and observe a minute of silence in memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who died at that time one year ago in Warm Springs, Ga.

In calling for the silent tribute to the nation's wartime leader, Gov. Tobin asked that special exercises be held. He also asked President Truman to call on the nation to join in observing the minute of silence.

Charles M. Robertson, 56, prominent in the potato business in Presque Isle, Me., plunged to his death today from an eighth-floor room of the Hotel Staller. His roommate, Lewellyn B. Hone, Presque Isle theater operator, told police he last saw Robertson around 2 a. m., when he retired. Later, discovering Robertson missing, he notified hotel authorities and the victim's body was found on a fifth-floor court roof. Robertson was pronounced dead by Dr. Herbert W. Grant, hotel physician. The victim's 19-year-old daughter, Barbara, student at a local school for interior decorators, was notified, at the Franklin St. House, where she makes her residence.

Q—What are horticultural beans?

A—Horticultural beans are commonly known in the market as shell beans. They are a type that have red splashed pod and should be used before they are fully matured. French's horticultural is a good strain.

Q—My garden soil is light. Will it be necessary for me to spade all the land or can I just spade in the row where I am going to plant?

A—For crops that are spaced 3 or 4 feet apart this practice is all right provided there is no sod. Loosen area not spaded with a cultivator to prevent loss of moisture.

Q—Last year we lost a great many plants by cutworms. When do they attack?

A—Cutworms do heavy damage from May 10 to July 1. Then the attacks are lighter. Suggest using poison bran mash. Watch for formula later.

Q—Will rhododendrons grow well in a pine grove where there is considerable shade?

A—Rhododendrons will thrive in the shade, but do not do too well under shallow rooted trees. They are not able to compete with these trees for food and moisture.

Q—Is it necessary to plant shrubs when they are dormant?

Q—Every year we get quite a lot of crooked stalks of asparagus. Can this be caused by cutworms?

A—Yes. Cutworms will sometimes chew on one side of the stalk and cause it to bend over.

Twisting is usually caused by cold wind sweeping across the bed.

Man Divorced 14, Annals 15th Bridal

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., April 10 (AP)—The 15th marriage of James F. Williams, 61, has ended in an annulment. His 14 previous marriages ended in divorces.

Williams told District Judge M. C. Hamel yesterday, Augusta McGary of New Lisbon, Wis., whom he married Aug. 3 in Iowa City following a correspondence club romance, disappeared after they lived together about a month. Williams expressed the belief "the whole thing was a plot" and she married him for his money rather than to cook his meals and take care of him as she had promised.

Charred Third-Floor Hall and Stairway . . . Where Fire Cut Off Escape of Three Families

DON'T WORRY ABOUT BOYS

GENERAL MacARTHUR has performed a reassuring service to the grievously but needlessly distressed parents and families of overseas servicemen in the matter of moral standards observed in the American occupation forces.

In an inferential sense, he might even be said to have administered a mild rebuke to the parents and families who have been worrying too much about this matter—although that was probably not his intention.

On the strength of occasionally isolated and sometimes exaggerated instances of improper or immoral conduct among the millions of men abroad, there has developed an unreasonable and wholly unsound apprehension that all moral standards have deteriorated and that a general moral collapse is imminent.

The American people ought to realize that the moral character and spiritual integrity of American youth are adequate and reliable safeguards against anything so sordid.

The American people, and particularly parents and families, should have a better and higher FAITH in the good instincts and sound ideals and clean minds of young Americans than to suspect or fear such a thing, let alone to accept it as a fact.

In any event, General MacArthur has taken occasion to reassure the country that such fears as it may have in the matter are groundless, and that fathers and mothers and wives and sweethearts may be perfectly sure that their young men in the armed forces abroad are neither morally nor emotionally out of balance.

The country does not need to worry about American youth losing its sense of moral values under the stress of prolonged overseas military duty, as General MacArthur attests.

NEW FRONTIER

WHEN WAR COMES to America again, it will come by way of the Arctic; and it will come by air instead of by land or sea.

It may come in the form of far-flying fleets of bombing planes; it may come in the shape of jet-propelled missiles, traveling faster than the speed of sound, each directed unerringly to its chosen target; or it may come in both of these terrifying and devastating ways at once.

Cities may be crumbled in the first wave of attack; vital industries may be wiped out in less than an hour; whole States may be suddenly streaked with death and desolation; non-combatant populations may vanish utterly in the charred ruins of these areas; and neither armies nor navies could fend off such an assault.

To guard the new frontier—the frontier of the barren Arctic—Gen. George wants an AUTONOMOUS AIR FORCE, equal in importance and in organization to the military and naval forces; and preferably he wants this air force to comprise one part of a full defense system composed of "co-equal" land, sea and air divisions, under a SINGLE CABINET OFFICER and with a unified, co-ordinated staff leadership.

In this, Gen. George agrees with Gen. Ira C. Eaker.

He agrees with Gen. Eisenhower and with Gen. MacArthur, who have tested and proved in battle the efficacy and in fact the necessity of co-ordination.

The plan does not mean that either the Army or the Navy need be subordinated.

IT DOES MEAN THAT AIR POWER, IN THIS ATOMIC AGE OF WARFARE, MUST BE PROVIDED TO PERFORM THE MISSION THAT AIR POWER ALONE CAN PERFORM—THE MISSION OF GUARDING OUR NEW FRONTIER WHICH LIES AT THE EAVES OF THE EARTH.

And, as Gen. George has pointed out, national economy as well as national security urge the program.

Three air forces, with all the duplication involved, would be three times as costly as one, and would probably be only one-third as efficient.

A BOVE is an excerpt from one of the many poems the author sent to her husband, a U. S. Marine sergeant, when he was at the fighting front. Back from the war, the sergeant says these poems from his sweetheart and wife served to build up his morale in many a distressing moment. . . . Are men more careless automobile drivers than women? Should the crack be "Isn't that just like a man?" instead of "Isn't that just like a woman?" Contests being held reveal the number of male auto drivers involved in traffic violations and accidents to be greater than that of women. Because of this, certain triumphant women are claiming their sex is vindicated; that the worst auto drivers are men. The method of arriving at this conclusion is faulty. The number of male auto drivers is much greater than of women. In addition, the average man drives many more miles than the average woman. Instead of the grand total method of deciding the question, the percentage system should be used. The mileage should also be considered. If the contests were handled that way I believe the results would prove that men are the more careful drivers. I might even bet a stogie on it.

Then when they get the house, they can dream about the additions.

PLEASE NOTE: The song "Bridget Donoghue" was not written about an imaginary character but a living person. Her name was Bridget O'Donoghue. But Johnny Patterson, the composer, eliminated the "O" to make a smoother lyric. Bridget was the owner of Wild Man of Borneo, Irish horse, that won the Liverpool Grand National in 1895. So I am informed by J. P. Raftery, veteran sportsman. Bridget sounds as if she might have been a very interesting person. Would like to hear more about her.

IN THIS ERA of twisting words out of all meaning so that one listens often to unidentifiable sounds which give only the impression of familiarity, as when a babe begins to utter his first syllables, the simple English word, "freedom," has become perverted and debased.

For instance, recently Boleslaw Bierut, president of puppet Poland, said that truth in a free press is determined by the opinion of the majority.

He said that Polish censorship is desired to prevent newspapers from "straining relations with the Allied powers."

Of course, "with the Allied powers" means only Soviet Russia, as Poland does not mind how strained her relations are with the United States or Great Britain.

This quantitative definition of truth is, of course, a lie. Was it truth when nearly the whole of mankind believed that the earth was flat?

Poland's great Copernicus is an example of one truthful man against all the world, as Poland's John Sobieski, who once saved Europe from the Turks, was a heroic example of a man against a horde.

Truth is objective, and what does it matter what majorities or minorities believe and squabble over; in time, truth will come out, as it has, for instance, in relationship to the immoral and dishonorable Yalta agreement concerning Poland.

THE MAJORITY-MINORITY concept of truth marks a retreat from freedom, from liberty, from honesty because a majority can, by force, impose its will for a falsehood as well as for the truth.

The American Constitution is a monument to the American doctrine that liberty is individual and unrelated to majority views. Now we face this question of truth in another aspect. On March 30, the Associated Press, in a dispatch concerning censorship from Moscow, stated:

"During the past month, correspondents had no knowledge of what happened to their copy after its submission."

"The new arrangement (permitting correspondents to see their censored and doctored dispatches) was announced through the telephone office where the copy is received. No other censorship changes were indicated."

In other words, American readers of newspapers for a period did not know whether the news from Russia was written by American correspondents stationed there or by the Russian propaganda office.

They did not know whether the American names signed to those dispatches were their authors in full or in part or at all.

They did not know whether the dispatches were doctored and whether opinions expressed were those of the writers, or injected into copy by censors.

Personally, I would decline to work under such conditions.

I would resign and notify the public of the reasons.

But that is a matter of taste.

I SUGGEST vigorously that it is the obligation of the press associations and of all newspapers to notify their readers in a conspicuous manner, so that there can be no doubt whatsoever, which dispatches are censored.

The American people ought at all times to know what is and what is not likely to be the truth.

Nothing can be regarded as truth which is issued by government for political purposes, except documents so labeled.

And it is of the utmost importance that the radio commentators announce when they are censored and when their announcements are doctored.

They, particularly those speaking from abroad, give the impression of spontaneity and freedom—probably because they talk so fast and so loud.

Actually, they are censored all the time. THEY SAY ONLY WHAT THEY ARE PERMITTED TO SAY IN MOST COUNTRIES.

They are required to submit their reports, the same as reporters who telegraph or telephone them.

In the United States, they read censored reports from abroad. Let the radio become truthful. Let it announce:

"We shall now hear from Jake McGloob in Warsaw, who is only permitted to tell you what the majority says is true and what will not strain relations with the Allies, menacing Soviet Russia."

That would be the truth, and it would represent freedom of the press and the radio.

There never can be "freedom of the press" in any form if a government, ours or any other, in any manner whatsoever, controls the wording or opinion as it moves from those who express it to the public.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, April 10—Whether you feel like making faces at it or go completely arse and enjoy "The Spectre of the Rose," you'll agree that Ivan Kiarov, the six-foot, blond dancer who plays the demented boy, is worth watching.

Ben Hecht brought him here from Broadway, where he appeared in "Oklahoma." An interesting story about the boy is that he was born Johnny Kaye and won the world's backstroke swimming championship when he was a student at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Joan Crawford

Now Daniel O'Shea has him under contract and the first picture he makes for Vanguard will be for David Selznick in "Little Women." This always amuses me—Kiarov, or Kale to his fraternity brothers, was on Broadway three years before his home town discovered him for the movies.

EVERYTHING is so peaceful on the "Life With Father" set that it could be "Life With Daddy, Dear." Fact is, the long delayed opus is rolling so smoothly that Mike Curtiz, the director, is finding time to think about his first picture on the new deal as an independent producer at Warners. It's Steve Fisher's "Winter Kill." If you haven't read this new novel let me tell you it is something different for Curtiz. There's the same kind of excitement about it that marked "The Front Page." The Fisher story deals with the melodramatic adventures of a group of small time operators who share desk space in the same office. There's a private detective, a racketeer, a gunman, a dress manufacturer, a story agent and a naughty girl involved. And shhhh—Mike wants Joan Crawford for the naughty girl.

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER'S contract with Sol Lesser for the "Tarzan" thrillers is up soon and Johnny has his eye on an independent venture which promises him a marvelous percentage. He has been negotiating for "The King of the Jungle" cartoons. I have a hunch that Bo Roos, who is Johnny's manager, is in on the deal somewhere and it wouldn't surprise me if the Weissmuller movies were made in Mexico City. For one thing, Roos has many business interests in Mexico—not to mention the fact that there is plenty of studio space there and our sister republic welcomes American producers and stars.

JUST HEARD an unusual story that interested me very much. In Paris, there lives one Olga Predobinskaja (pronounced with two sneezes between vowels). Anyway, we'll call her Olga. She's 90 years old and was, at one time, Pavlova's ballet teacher. She also taught Tamara Toumanova. During the war the old lady walked miles and miles every day doing charity work until the Nazis took over and sent her back to the rocking chair. She's quite a character, as I understand it, and now Casey Robinson is bringing her over here as a sort of technical advisor and a bit of "color" for "The Loves of Pavlova," which Toumanova is doing for Casey and Ben Bogeus.

THE MAGNET DRAWING Lana Turner back to New York is good looking radio magnate Peter Jaeger. I must say she is frank about the way she feels about him. "I'm not going to be married," Lana says, "but I saw a great deal of Mr. Jaeger when I was in New York and I will see him again on this trip." If you ask me, it must be a serious romance that takes Lana back there so soon after three months of almost constant traveling in Mexico and South America. So if the lady will pardon me, I'm going to put a question mark after her "no marriage" statement.

ALONG ABOUT the same time Kathryn Grayson and John Shelton had one of their frequent battles, Kathryn's sister, Frances Baughn, separated from her husband; David Miller, of the Signal Corps. But the Millers have now reconciled, and David is coming back to Frances and their baby as soon as he finishes a picture for the government, that he is now completing at Astoria. Sgt. Gene Fowler, son of the famous author, is also at Astoria. One of the few members of the Hollywood contingent left, he is cutting film. Miller returns to M-G-M when he is out of the service, the studio that has Kathryn as well as Frances under contract.

THE BOB HOPES' charity bazaar for the children of Europe was a howling success financially and a lot of fun on the side. Dorothy Lamour stole all the thunder as a "satesad" of baskets and other things made of straw, until her pals got on to her system. She was leaving her booth and waylaying all the guests as they came through the gate. Bing Crosby and Ann Southern got into such spirited bidding for four cute puppies that Bing had to shell out $125 a piece for the pooches who were the "best found dawgs" at best. His four kids told him they would never speak to him again, if he didn't come across. One of the four dolls donated by Margaret O'Brien brought $150.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: I hear from New York that Marguerite Chapman has been doing all the night spots with Lt. Com. Randolph Rouse of Newport News; Claudette Colbert and Dr. Joel Freeman are on their way back to Hollywood after two months in the big town—and Irene Selznick goes to New York this coming week. She was at Mary and Jack Benny's party with Eddy Duchin, who has made a lot of friends in Hollywood. Talked with Merle Oberon who said there is no truth in the stork rumors. Mrs. Helen Parnell of England, visiting Bebe Daniels, renewed old friendships with many of the Benny guests. Bebe was ill with sinus and unable to attend. Robert Taylor never left Barbara Stanwyck's side which should quiet some of those foolish rumors. Barbara hasn't been feeling well for a week or so. I met Joan Bennett's diamond rimmed spectacles created a lot of attention. Tony Martin was at the Benny dinner but Rita Hayworth came with Jimmy Stewart. Cary Grant was with Betty Hessel; the Gary Coopers, the Jerry Wals, Ann Southern and Bob Sterling were among the dinner guests.

JACK WARNER, home from New York, says Ann will be here in 10 days; had a nice talk with Joan Fontaine at Harriet Parsons' cocktail party. Joan looks awfully pretty—and what a roundup of pictures she has scheduled! Kathryn Forbes, author of the highly successful "Remember Mama," came to the party with the Peter Rathvons. Had a talk with pretty little Mrs. Bob Cummings about the new baby. Bob is so happy these days. So was Henry Wills because he was with Diana Lynn, and another popular guest was Helen Gilmore, Photoplay's eastern editor. Dorothy Lamour and Bill Howard stopped in on their way to the dinner the Arthur Lyons were giving in their honor. Dottie, Bill and Wynn Rocamora left next day for New York; my old friend, Igor Gorin, from the "Hollywood" days, is in town for his concert. Bob is to talk over a movie with Frank Borzage. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

polite hot-footing indulged in by our United States Senators. Even now I have to read a thing over a couple of times to get some of the more subtle passages at arms, as witness this exchange between Sen. Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri and Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, as reported in the Congressional Record.

MR. DONNELL: Does the Senator mean to imply, directly or indirectly, that there has been any attempt whatsoever to filibuster on my part? I demand an answer to that question.

MR. MILLIKIN: Of course, Senator, I give you the answer: I would not for a minute imply that. It took a period of time comparable to a filibuster.

MR. DONNELL: Does the Senator mean to imply that there was any effort whatsoever on my part to filibuster?

MR. MILLIKIN: I say to the Senator that I do not imply it directly or indirectly, and after the session is over I will hand the Senator some joke books and give him a suggestion or two on obvious low-grade humor.

MR. DONNELL: I thank the Senator. Mr. President, I may say that I am not an applicant for joke books of that kind.

Boston After Dark

CLOUDING THE SUNNY atmosphere of the current Boston shoe show is the dark threat to the shoe industry of a shortage of nails. . . . Manufacturers hope that the scarcity will not prevail. . . . But little encouragement is being given them, they say. . . .

Sugar is so scarce that some nightclubs are allotting one lump to a cup of coffee, or tea. . . . Unless the butter shortage is alleviated shortly even the cameo pairs of the onetime staple will disappear from restaurants.

THE MEN'S shirt situation is (no pun intended) ironing out. . . . Curiously, the first large shipment to a Boston department store of men's white shirts in all popular sizes was a shipment of white sport shirts with short sleeves and open-necked collars. . . . Another batch of white shirts proved to be the collarless variety. . . . Al Taxier, former boss of the Rio Casino and co-owner of Jack's in Charlestown until its sale last week, was the ingenious lad who thought up a plan to convert these shirts, designed to be worn with buttoned-on collars to shirts with collars attached. . . . Al bought a batch of them, brought them to a shirt-maker and suggested that enough material could be found in the pre-war full-length tails to make collars. . . . The tailor agreed.

IMPRESSED WITH the success of his scheme, the generous Taxier spread the word along the Boston Rialto. . . . Starting at Sandy's, the shoe store in the Tremont st. side of the Little Building which has become a rendezvous for Boston men-about-town and visiting actors and entertainers from New York, the word went out. . . . The whole consignment of collarless shirts disappeared within the space of one afternoon from the department store counter where they had reposed for a week.

THIS SAME SANDY'S incidentally—rates a mention as a successful enterprise which grew from a small beginning a few years ago. . . . Sandy—surname never used—was a popular fellow in the theatrical-nightclub section of the city. . . . He bought a stock of shoes from a Brockton manufacturer who had gone out of business. . . . His personal popularity made him a merchant with an initial asset of goodwill. . . . The original stock was soon sold. . . . The hole-in-the-wall in Stuart street, where the enterprise had its beginning, proved much too small. . . . A new and much larger store, around the corner, was designed. . . . Sandy's has moved. . . . Business is booming. . . . When the Boston baseball clubs arrive, business will take another spurt. . . . Nearly every ball player of the Braves and Red Sox are friends (and customers) of the expanding young merchant who doesn't have to deal in odd lots of footwear these days.

ADVANCE SALE for Blackstone's engagement at the Colonial augurs that the veteran magician will hang up new box-office records for a hocus-pocus show in Boston. . . . "Henry V." at the independent Equire Theater (the onetime Repertory Theater in Huntington avenue opposite Symphony Hall), was given its United States premiere here partly because Boston was regarded as "the most English city" in America. . . . (Such a definition will not be greeted with cheers in many parts of the city.)

WHATEVER THE reasons for the choice of Boston as the premiere-city, "Henry V." can remain here for months. If United Artists, the distributors of the British-made film, so decide. . . . the film is one of those "epic" which Hollywood once was wont to proclaim too readily. . . . Laurence Olivier gives a great performance in the title role, and because of his direction of the film, as well, the Olivier stature in show business has assumed the most emphatic increase possible.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Sometimes I suspect the presence of an old-time vaudeville gag-man in the inner circles of OPA. The other day it announced:

"Higher ceiling prices have been established for Quebracho extract, Urunday extract, Myrobalsans, Divi Divi, Tara and Algarobilla. The cost of living is not affected."

WHAT ABOUT the poor housewife who has only a limited amount to spend on Divi Divi?

UNDER THE Constitution a treaty must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate. But we have a thing called an "executive agreement" which needs only the executive powers vested in the President.

Many contend that a lot of the "executive agreements" this country has entered into are really treaties and are handled this way just to get around the Constitution. The critics charge that the State Dept. has been particularly culpable in showing through treaties without the O. K. of the Senate.

Debate along these lines was in full swing before the Senate commerce committee the other day. The debate might have been entitled "When Is a Treaty Not a Treaty?" And some of the arguments were quite baffling.

AMONG THOSE who took the stand was Mr. Frederic Brenckman, Washington representative of the National Grange. Mr. Brenckman seemed to have some ideas on the subject, although what they were was not entirely clear.

He did a lot of hemming and hawing. Finally, Sen. John H. Overton of Louisiana said: "Now, about the St. Lawrence waterway project. Would you call that a treaty or an agreement?"

Mr. Brenckman appeared to give the question deep thought. At last he rendered his opinion. "I'll agree to that," he said.

BACK WHERE I come from, if you wanted to make nasty cracks at a guy you made them, providing the guy was little enough, and circumlocution or sugar-coating was considered very sissified.

Consequently, it took me quite a time to get onto "the the rear, they found the three small children huddled in death on their bedroom floor, at the window.

Mr. and Mrs. Wassell, who had occupied an adjoining bedroom, met death as they struggled to reach their little ones. The parents' bodies were in the doorway of the children's room.

Frank and Verna LaPete, the occupants of an apartment directly over that of the Wassells, apparently managed to struggle into their clothes before the flames reached their smoke-filled home. They were found sprawled over a threshold at their corridor door.

Eight ambulances and fire apparatus summoned by three alarms were sent to the aid of terrified dwellers, who shouted frantically at windows as firemen ascended aerial ladders to make rescues.

Patrolman Maher, a member of the force since 1926, died at the hospital at 8:18 his wife was at his side. Waiting near were Patrolmen Thomas Keefe, James Lannan and Albert Blaffers, who had volunteered for blood transfusions.

The blaze was under control after a two-hour battle. It was discovered by three employees of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., on duty next door in the Kenmore and Commonwealth Exchange building.

But for their alertness and help the death toll would have been higher, firemen said. Hailed as heroes by Fire Chief Napen Bother were Martin Murray, Parker st., Roxbury, Patrick Hennessey, Newtown ct., Cambridge, and William H. Devine, Aspinwall rd., Dorchester.

Murray, who saw the smoke pouring from second-floor windows of the apartment building, ran into the hallway and shouted an alarm. He awakened and led to safety two first-floor dwellers, Julia Gornell, 41, and Roland Gornell, 16.

Dashing back into the building again, Murray found the smoke impenetrable. He shouted up the stairway to rouse others, then raced to Dalton st., where he registered an alarm.

His fellow workers then joined him in raising a telephone worker's ladder to a second floor front window where Mrs. Helena Hoyer was crying for help. They carried her down. John Oxley was appealing for aid at a third story window. The ladder was not long enough.

Firemen took him to safety over one of their ladders.

Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford, occupants of a basement apartment, escaped with their year-old daughter, Kathleen, by using a rear stairway.

An unidentified woman leaped from a first-floor window and staggered away, assisted by a fireman.

Eight families in an adjoining apartment house fled to the street. One woman there, Mrs. Catherine London, related:

"When my husband and I reached the street the other house was just an inferno. We saw the woman jump. Neighbors said they were leaping from rear windows, too. The building seemed to be crumbling in flames."

Fire Chief Boutillier ordered the arson squad into action, not only because of circumstances noted at the Belvidere st. blaze but because of a $1000 fire in a three-story brick apartment house in Irvington st., corner of St. Botolph st., at 5:37 a. m., and a $10,000 fire in Huntington ave., at 5:11 a. m.

The Huntington ave. blaze was in an untenanted four-story building opposite the Copley Square Hotel, now in the process of renovation. Firemen at the Irvington st. site rescued James Tierney and Mrs. Eva Moran on a ladder, while a dozen other tenants made their way out unassisted.

In addition, shortly before the Belvidere st. fire broke out a parked sedan on Boylston st. was discovered burning.

Curley Asks Police Aid On Hub Fire Menaces

After inspecting the Belvidere st. ruins where flames caused the death of eight persons today, Mayor Curley called on Police Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan for co-operation in ridding Boston of fire menaces—but added tartly he was not "sure" he would be co-operation.

"The fire escapes of buildings 20 feet away were filled with old clothing and debris," he declared. "It was only efficiency of the firemen that kept the flames from jumping that 20 feet and causing an even greater death toll in adjoining properties."

Curley said he would ask Sullivan to confer with him and other city officials tomorrow at 11 a. m. in an effort to promote a higher degree of safety in Boston properties. He explained:

"I'm going to ask him to designate his 1800 uniformed men as inspectors to report fire menaces. If I get his co-operation I will have to court anyone guilty of maintaining a fire menace. I'll play no favorites."

Curley said he would ask Sullivan to restore to the fire department arson squad two policemen of long experience, Henry Donovan and Dennis Haggerty, who were sent back to the police department by the then Fire Chief Samuel Pope.

Pope took action after the enactment of legislation in the wake of the Coconut Grove fire, when the power of inquiry in the arson type fires was taken from the fire commissioner and vested in the commissioner of public safety, who was the original star

The mayor remarked only yesterday, at a State House hearing, Corp. Counsel Joseph A. Scipione and Bldg. Comr. John J. Mahoney had urged the power of inquiry be restored to the fire commissioner.

Curley said he would see to it that city employees such as meter readers, building and health inspectors, took note of fire menace conditions and reported them so so really owners could be notified, then summoned if they did not take remedial action.

THE HUM-M-M IS YOUR "GO AHEAD"
SIGNAL

HUM-M-M

Please wait for it before dialing

Usually you'll hear the steady "hum-m-m" of the dial tone almost immediately upon lifting your receiver. That's your signal to "go ahead" and begin dialing your number.

When you dial before you hear the dial tone, you'll get a wrong number—or no number at all. Jiggling the receiver hampers your call, too... forces it to begin all over at the Central Office.

In certain circumstances, dial equipment becomes overloaded. That's because in many places we have temporarily connected more telephones to the Central Office than we would normally, in order to give more people service. At such times, there may be a delay of some seconds before you get the dial tone.

Remember... it will help you and everyone get swifter service if you'll wait for the dial tone's continuous hum.

DELAY in getting the dial tone does not usually mean that anything is wrong with your line. Normally, it indicates that central office equipment is temporarily overloaded. Please do not report your line out of order without first allowing plenty of time to hear the dial tone.

GI Bride Who Fled 1-Room Hut Wants Divorce and Job

BLISS, N. Y., April 10 (AP)—A 16-year-old English war bride, who said she became disillusioned with life on a farm in Salisbury, N. C., was en route today to another farm home, that of her aunt, Mrs. Emoline Shisler, an English war bride, in 1918. Mrs. Shisler's husband, Francis, said his niece, Mrs. Evelyn Caroline Poston, left New York city by bus this morning and was due to arrive in nearby Arcade about 9:30 p. m.

Mrs. Poston left Salisbury last Wednesday after spending only a day with her ex-soldier husband and was found yesterday in a Manhattan hotel by police.

Detective John Leffler quoted her as saying she left her husband after finding he lived in a one-room cabin with few conveniences. She told police she did not want to return to her old home in Crickwood, England, where she was married last Oct. 20. Rather, she said, she wanted to get a divorce and find a job and stay here.

Leffler said Mrs. Poston told

Boston American, April 10—25

him she had been under the impression when she was married that her husband was a wealthy man.

In Salisbury, her husband, Warren H. Poston, telephoned her yesterday. She told him she was "all right," and that she left him in Salisbury because she "couldn't stand" that part of the country. In reply to her query, Poston said, "No, I ain't mad yet."

300 Notables to Attend Columbia's Jubilee Dinner

More than 300 New England showmen, civic leaders and public officials will attend the silver jubilee dinner celebrating Columbia's 25th anniversary dinner tomorrow night.

Governor Tobin and Mayor Curley will be the speakers at the anniversary dinner, which is being jointly sponsored by the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, the Lions International and Columbia Pictures Corp.

L. H. Rogovin, Columbia's New England division manager, will act as toastmaster. There will be music by Ruby Newman's Orchestra.

M. J. Liming, managing director of the Boston Chamber of Commerce; W. Russell Porter of New Bedford, regional director of the Lions International; John E. B. Erickson, president of the Boston Host-Lions Club; Claude W. Cain, assistant secretary of Lions International; John Gates of Wakefield, district governor, Mass. 33-A of the Lions; Mrs. Ethel M. Troland, president of the Mass. Federation of Women's Clubs; Abe Montague, vice-president Columbia Pictures, and Joseph P. McConville, vice-president Columbia; Louis Aster, Columbia; Sylvan Rich, president of Martini Frocks and Arthur J. Schier of Jay's, Inc., Boston, are among the many guests who will attend the dinner. Members of the press and radio will also attend.

Reservations Open At Tributary Offices

Reservations for the Tributary Theater's Shakespeare Festival, opening at New England Mutual Hall April 23, may now be made at the box office, as well as at the Tributary offices, Room 307, 739 Boylston St. There has been an unusually large number of mail orders.

OLYMPIA, SCOLLAY BILL

"Miss Susie Slagle," the story of doctors in the making, their hopes, aspirations and young loves, moves from the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow to the Washington Street Olympia and Scollay Theaters.

On the same bill will be "Gay Blades," with Jean Rogers and Allan Lane co-starred in the romantic musical.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

In an effort to assist veterans in every way possible and to promote expeditious processing of bonus applications, State Treas. John E. Hurley has asked the Veterans' Friend to publish the following:

"All commissioned members of the armed forces, who have had previous service as enlisted men must file both their discharges when making application for the Mass. Veterans Bonus.

"Scores of officers have filed only their discharge as a commissioned man when applying for bonus and this has resulted in a delay of processing until earlier discharge has been received. This is necessary in order to complete applicant's military record."

Navy men were also urged to file their Form 553 separation papers with their discharges because in many instances the discharges contain very little information as to details of service.

From the War Assets Administration, 600 Washington st., Boston, comes word that a sale of surplus construction machinery and farm machinery, fixed price sale to veterans, will be held at South Armory, 18 Irvington st., Boston, April 22. Vehicles may be inspected between now and April 19. Further information may be obtained at above address.

(Ed. note: Miss H. S., Belmont, N. H., appreciates your kind information and will forward same to person who made inquiry.)

Q—Could you tell if the state of Mass. has passed the bill which would give an additional $100 or $200 to veterans of this state?
C. J. Chelsea.

A—The bill is still pending before Legislative Committee on Ways and Means.

Q—Kindly Inform me where I might obtain a list of night schools in the vicinity of Boston. I would be interested either in free or those financed under the G. I. Bill. G. K. Brookline.

Q—Would you please tell me where I could write to find out what happened to my final $100 check for mustering-out pay. It was due last December. T. Y., Revere.

A—Write Finance Officer at camp or installation where you were discharged.

PLAN NATIONAL THEATER

A plan for a National Theater throughout the United States was announced this week by Vinton Freedley, president of the American National Theater and Academy. A nation-wide drive for several million dollars will be conducted in the fall. Freedley, long prominent as a Broadway producer, pointed out that America once had more theaters than any other country in the world. Today, he said, 90 per cent of the American people have no theater.

How Long Will SOAP SHORTAGES LAST?

ON THE GLOOMY SIDE

There are not nearly enough fats in the country to make all the soaps, soap powders, and soap flakes you want. So short is the supply, the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Besides, the supplies of soaps many of you housewives have had in reserve are running low — and the demand for soaps is increasing.

ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

Most of you housewives have continued to turn in fats. You've helped keep our industrial fat supply large enough to meet minimum needs.

But it's a close race. Any letdown on your part can mean less soap for everybody.

By turning in used fats you're helping to bring back bigger supplies of scarce soaps. Keep on the job, get 4¢ for every pound.

Where there's fat—there's soap

KEEP TURNING IN USED FATS TO HELP MAKE MORE SOAP

Smart Set Small Family Wedding

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. ELIZABETH SALTONTALL BELMONT, daughter of Mr. John L. Saltontall of Chestnut Hill and Topsfield, was married yesterday afternoon to Richard Lockwood Tower, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Tower of Lexington.

The Rev. Vivian Pomeroy of Milton officiated at the small family wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Saltontall. The newlyweds will make their home in California.

Betsy is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Bilings of Rhinebeck, N. Y., and was formerly married to August Belmont, scion of New York's famous Belmont family. She is related to many prominent Bostonians. On her mother's side she is a niece of Mrs. Marjory Rice Means and Capt. Durant Rice and on her father's side is a niece of Mrs. Neal Rantoul and Robert Saltontall. Her first cousins include Mrs. Ralph G. Coburn, Mrs. Robert H. Mallowell, Jr., Mrs. Richard K. Thorndike, Jr., Mrs. Henry A. Murray, Mrs. Joseph Bragdon, Mrs. Harold A. Black, William G. Saltontall and Robert Saltontall, Jr. She is also a kin of Sen. Leverett Saltontall.

In her debutante days Betsy was prominent in the North Shore hunting set and continued her interest in riding when she and Mr. Belmont made their home in New Jersey. She is a sister of Mrs. Ephron Catlin, Jr., of Natick and Mrs. Benjamin Bradlee of New York.

Mr. Tower graduated from Harvard in 1931 and belongs to Owl, Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770 and The Country Club. During the war he was captain of artillery in Europe.

AFTER A WARTIME lapse of several years socialite members of the Milton Club are resuming the amateur theatricals which provide so much fun for cast and audience alike. Alanson Sturgis is back from the Army and directing the first play "Yes or No" at the club tomorrow and Friday evenings. Mrs. Allen Potter is assisting him.

Experienced amateurs in the cast include Mrs. Edward G. Iselin, Mrs. Copeland Draper and C. H. Sayre. Newcomers to the circle of grease paint and cues are post deb Rosemary Kunhardt, Mrs. Maxwell MacDonald, Philip Benson and Henry H. Watson, Jr.

PEPPY JANE BADGER of Beacon st., who has a busy schedule of Nurses' Aide and Junior League work, danced at the Waltz Party the other evening in a lovely creation of apple green and pink striped taffeta with a full swirling skirt. She was in a party of young people, including Peggy Coffin, Emily Perry, Anna Storer, Jim Shanahan, Phil Cook, Scotty Olsen, Molly Wood and Joseph Montgomery. Debutante Jacqueline Laneris in a springlike emerald taffeta, with white stripes, was escorted by Arthur Clark

Easter Card Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: My husband is still overseas. I have never before sent out Easter cards, but this year I have the urge to send some. Perhaps it is because I was so ill at Christmas-time that I did not send any cards. Would it be proper for me to include my husband's name in signing these Easter cards? The cards would be sent to his relatives and mine, and our mutual friends.

ANITA.

Yes, this would be proper, cordial, and a devoted greeting that will be dearly welcome to relatives and friends. Naturally your husband would want to be included in your Easter greetings, just as he would be included if he were at home. And, to make your card even more personal, I suggest you add a message of explanation and greeting to the signatures: "From Anita and Philip." Although Philip is away (he is still in the Philippines), I know he will want me to include his Easter greetings with mine. So—Warmest greetings and dearest love to you and Jim from both of us.

TUXEDOS PROPER

When the bride, maid of honor and "the mothers" are to wear evening gowns at an evening wedding, would it be proper for the men in the wedding party to wear tuxedos? M. M. S.

Unless the plans are for a strictly formal evening wedding, it would be proper for the men to wear tuxedos.

New Sequence In Makeup

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

CO-ORDINATED MAKEUP is as important this season as the skillful blending of your costume colors. And besides, there must be a deft mixing into a new entity of both outfit and complexion charm for an all-over symphony of smartness.

Women everywhere crave newer, softer colors... a freshness and vitality that is intrinsically a part of the future and of our time. How to correlate both complexion and costume?

A noted beauty consultant who has always been famous for her subtle and knowing ways of blending colors that synchronize with the high fashions of any season... has taken the new spring fashion picture into expert consideration and created a most thrilling new makeup sequence.

She has evolved a radiant primary red that is magically flattering to every type... blonde, brunette, redhead, medium brown or silver gray.

And to clothes... it adds the needed scintillation and fire to the new light reds... and at the same time adds verve and dash to the new neutrals, the smart off-whites, champagnes and beiges... as well as grays and navy.

There are six essentials in a co-ordinated makeup... lipstick, rouge, foundation, face powder, nail lacquer and mascara... and in this new sequence you find the delicacy and vitality so important.

For the name of this co-ordinated makeup sequence, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wedding Plans For Midsummer

1—At her informal church wedding on a Saturday afternoon in August, my daughter is going to wear a wedding gown with a fingertip veil. What would be the proper attire for the groom and ushers?

2—What would be the proper form for an informal printed invitation?

3—Who buys the attendants' gowns? And who buys the groom's ring?

1—If informality is to be the keynote of the wedding, the men in the wedding party may properly wear business suits, or for the midsummer wedding white suits of linen or similar material, or white flannels and dark coats.

2—Informal invitations would not be printed; they would be hand-written notes of invitation.

3—Each bridal attendant pays for her own costume, although every detail of the costume is planned by the bride-elect. And the best man and ushers provide their own attire. The bride buys the bridegroom's ring.

Hot Muffins Give Special Touch

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

ONCE WE BEGIN WORKING in the garden or enjoying ourselves out-of-doors, we'll realize how little time will be spent inside. Still the family has to have meals that are tempting and delicious. And hot muffins give any meal a special touch.

Muffins truly deserve the name of "quick bread" for they are the easiest of all quick-breads to make. Sift dry ingredients together into a mixing bowl, make a well in the center and add the mixture of egg, milk and shortening. Stir just until mixed. Drop in muffin tins, bake, and there you are.

FOR VARIETY

At least 10 different kinds of muffins can emerge from a basic muffin recipe. Dress them up right in the mixing process or just before popping them into the oven. For instance, after the batter is in the muffin tins, brush tops with egg white and sprinkle with granulated sugar for a sugar-frost muffin. Or sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar for a crusty top. Speaking of toppings, one more trick is to add a teaspoon of jelly or jam to each muffin before baking.

For surprise muffins place a cooked apricot or prune in the bottom of the tin. Pour the batter in on top and bake. Or stir ½ to ¾ cup of chopped fruit into the batter while mixing. Peanut butter muffins are fun. Put half the batter in muffin tins. Drop in teaspoon peanut butter. Smooth and add rest of batter.

CORN MEAL MUFFINS

1-3 cup drippings (solidified)
1-3 cup sugar 1 beaten egg
1-4 cups milk 1 cup flour
4 tsp. salt 1 cup corn meal
4 tsp. baking powder
Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and milk. Add flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Add cornmeal, stirring only enough to mix. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full, bake at 425 deg. F. 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

BLACK LACE MAGIC . . . with a satin waistband tied in the back is a designer's capricious fancy for after-dark formality. And Ceil Chapman further dramatizes its enchanting allure by contrasting a simply-cut bodice . . . completely stripped of ornamentation . . . with a fully-gathered lace overskirt. No "wall-flower" ever looked as elusively artful as this.

Unadorned Formal Necklines — Chapman

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

A MERICAN womanhood has earned the right to fun and frolic . . . and to clothes that fabulously express this Cinderella era of carriage, courtier and calcium light. She's come out from behind the machines . . . willingly forfeited her replacement of man's industrialism bequeathed to her via wartime necessity . . . and now she wants to play. And is that bad?

Playing means dressing up . . . donning the extravagant "glad rags" of swish and sway which expose irresistible shoulders, a beautiful throatline, above-the-waistline femininity and the absolute truth about the figure.

While the casual look in daytime is still good . . . it's all-out glamour for night. And Ceil Chapman . . . whose deft designing fingers make a specialty of enticing dine-and-dance clothes . . . follows the trend of complete freedom in formal dress. Her clothes are rhythmic—al fashion plates.

Offsetting the "terrifically" swirling skirt which she particularly fancies . . . she contrasts it paradoxically with neckline bareness and purposeful unadornment for a silhouette study that is as good for mademoiselle and her inevitable "spring fornal" . . . as for madame and more sophisticated rendezvous. And isn't that strict below-the-neckline simplicity striking?

(Tomorrow's Designer: William Ross)

34 Designers Dress You for Spring

EMBROIDERED WHITE mousseline with girldle and bustle bow of faille is Ceil Chapman's dream of a romantic young evening dress . . . For me . . . moonlight and roses. Its slightly lowered girdled-waistline creates the rounded hip silhouette. The smooth, bare neckline is tempting simplicity.

DANCE and dine formal clothes follow three dominant themes this spring.

For the young girl, I like the silhouette in which rounded hips minimize the waistline, the top is stripped of every bit of ornamentation, leaving the shoulders bare, and the skirt billowing out from the waist and treated in a way to give it the appearance of great width.

For the more sophisticated type, I favor the sheath-like skirt silhouette with the bare-shouldered look; but with the addition of long sleeves for an enchanting and different effect.

The third silhouette takes us to the popular short dinner or daylight dining dress. In this group, I like the feeling of complete freedom with "terrifically" swirling skirt. Necklines can be varied from the off-the-shoulder to a new bateau heart shape that is completely new-looking. But I like the arms completely uncovered so as not to sacrifice the bare look.

Ceil Chapman

MID-CALF HEMLINE . . . a new length formality for spring . . . gives added intrigue to this swishy black taffeta short dinner or daylight dining dress with its swirling skirt and a waistline . . . subtly elongated with a diagonal motif. And for its only trimming . . . Ceil Chapman handsomely decks it with a fabulous self bow . . . its tails drooping to the skirt edge.

Wallace Makes Food Plea to School Children

WASHINGTON, April 10 (INS)—Commerce Secretary Wallace told the American people today it is their "sacred duty" to fulfill wartime promises to feed starving peoples of Europe and Asia.

In an appeal, directed chiefly to the school children of the nation, Wallace declared:

"Millions of hungry people are asking you for food. Help put it in their outstretched hands."

The secretary's appeal followed a government warning that a five per cent drop in meat production has occurred within a week, and a prediction of five to 10 per cent less poultry for 1946 than in 1945.

These drops in production were counteracted somewhat by an Agriculture Department forecast of larger supplies of eggs for civilians during the last six months of 1946 than in the same period last year.

Tobin Names Casey To State Health Board

Gov. Tobin today sent to the executive council the nomination of William Casey of Charlton Depot as a member of the Massachusetts health control board and withdrew his earlier nomination of David J. Holmes of Greenfield.

Holmes was named March 13, but was widely opposed by members of the Massachusetts Grange on the grounds he was not a dairy farmer. Casey is former state commissioner of agriculture.

Federal Postoffice Vets Get Political Runaround

By AUSTEN LAKE

WITH ALL ITS VOCIFEROUS BOMBAST on behalf of veteran's rights Washington has been less sincere in protecting the interests of returned soldiery than the states, cities and individual Americans. Our Federal politicians have been long on larynx but short on action, as the latest example will attest.

Austen Lake

Today two GI spokesmen, ex-Sgt. Hugh McNamara of Lexington and ex-Staff Sgt. Bill Manning of Rosindale, came to espouse the cause of more than 400 veterans, whom the federal postoffice had denied civil service seniority because they had served in the armed forces.

The 400-plus, all from Greater Boston, were among the many men of military age who took the P. O. civil service examinations in 1937 and qualified. Then they sat down to await appointments as clerks, carriers and handlers.

Penalized for Service

BUT THE MILLS OF THE P. O. grind slowly in peacetime and war time. So Uncle Sam's long arm reached out and grabbed those that were physically fit and rushed them, willfully, to the four corners of the global compass where they suffered hazards and hardship with the same bitter philosophy of all GIs. They accepted this condition fatalistically because national necessity came before individual need. Some died. Some were wounded.

Meanwhile Uncle Sam required more P. O. workers. So he appointed men from the remaining civil service list who had not qualified for service even down to grade of 70, which is the thin, wavering line between failure and acceptance. In the Boston area 460 new clerks and 344 carriers were given full time status at an average $2500 annual pay. And that was all right.

When war ended the original eligible appointees began trickling home happy in the notion that their future was secured by civil service seniority and that they would tumble into jobs with a satisfying click. But not so. Perhaps the first hundred veterans early birds got full status. But the late comers were made "substitutes" at a $1700 average. And those who came home after Feb. 1 didn't get any jobs at all. More than 400 eligibles found themselves pawns in the game of political parricide, being put back to the start without favor or preference.

So they organized into a grievance group and sent a delegation to Washington with similar other delegations with the same complaint converged from all over the U. S. A. And there they got a quick, legalized dust-off by Jesse Donaldson, the First Assistant P. M. General who directs the machinery details of the department while Robert E. Hannegan, the National Democratic chairman, busies himself with party patronage and political fence-mending. Donaldson fished through his files and pulled out Form R-160, E. O. 8337 under the heading "Suspension of Eligibility," reading:

"When it is known that an eligible is serving in the armed forces his name will not be certified for consideration for appointment. His eligibility will be suspended until he notifies the Civil Service Commission that he desires his eligibility extended in accordance with executive order."

No assurance! No security! Just a neat swerve framed for the convenience and comfort of the swivel-chair politicians who don't wish to be annoyed by involvements and headaches of seniority. They adopted the easiest way of just rubbing the seniority out.

The A. G. Concurs

IN OTHER WORDS THE government, which tagged the men for armed services with no choice but to be IT, penalizes them for making this sacrifice, which averages 3½ years in the case of the Greater Boston group. Washington exacted the last full ounce of obligation from them, but feels none in return. Thus the U. S. Attorney General's office, which can usually be relied upon to color its rulings according to preferred hues of the party in power, came up with this gem of evasion.

The A. G. ruled that "in order to be appointed, the appointee must be available and physically present," ignoring the impossibility of such "presence" due to enforced military service at the four compass points of the world. And what kind of legal logic do you call that?

Then, to frost the cake of the veteran's discontent, Donaldson came up with this verbal hula dance. He said, "Just being eligible doesn't mean that you would have been appointed even if you had been here. It only means that we are obliged to appoint one in every group of three in the list." Which was more political shadow boxing, considering that the P. O. had virtually taken everybody on its list during the vet's absence, down to the bedrock mark of 70.

The State of Massachusetts does it better. Page 60 of the "Laws relating to veterans" reads: "Any person... separated from the service of the Commonwealth (for military service)... shall be reinstated without Civil Service examination or loss of seniority or other rights." Thus the State assumes its liabilities toward veterans but Washington, with all its loving verbiage and sweetheart vote-calls, does not.

The only sunshine in the PO veterans' gloom was shed by Congressman John A. McCormack, who has been a genuinely active vet's friend and through whom this column has rectified many a GI wrong. He introduced a bill, H. R. 5363, on Feb. 4, calling for restoration of full seniority on the original Civil Service list, as of the date when such names were reached.

But there the matter rests with the bill entombed in the congressional crypt. Meanwhile the statesmen weave verbal wreaths and throw forensic bouquets to the heroes whose selfless devotion secured the immortal salvation of this greatest nation. That's what I mean by long on larynx and short on action.

All-Hawaiian 112 Final In National Amateurs

By BILL SMITH

Thirty-two amateurs, the best in this country and Hawaii, have reached the home-stretch in their quest for fistic fame as they prepare for the semi-finals and finals of the National A. A. U. championships at the Garden tonight. For the second consecutive year, New England will be without a representative as this sector's sole remaining survivors, Gene McIntyre in the light-heavyweight class and heavyweight Dave Beattie were eliminated via the kayo route. Tony Araujo of Providence, who was entered in the 135's, failed to make an appearance.

Both McIntyre and Beattie were completely outclassed in their respective fights. McIntyre faced Ben Skelton, a colored boy from Pittsburgh, Pa., and after being dropped twice in the first round, the bout was halted. Beattie had no better luck as he hit the deck twice for nine counts in first stanza and was spilled twice in the second round by Willie Clemmons of Oakland, Cal.

Nothing is certain in a fight and that was proven last night when Fred Werny, Oklahoma Indian, gave Grady Welch of Hawaii, a one-sided shellacking. Welch showed such good form that the experts had practically conceded him the heavyweight crown. Grady had a snap in the opening canto but Werny connected with some hard right hands and down went Grady for two counts of nine in the second. He was saved by the bell on the second knockdown. Even a tidal wave can't keep Hawaii from taking home the 112-pound title as the four remaining boys in that division all come from the "land of leis."

Defending champion, Charles Lester, huge colored lad from Cleveland, Ohio, stopped James Vaughan of Norfolk, Va., to advance another step towards his second crown.

The best-looking fighter in the entire group is Robert Foxworth of Chicago, who kayoed both his opponents without drawing a deep breath. Foxworth was National champion in 1942-1943 until he went into the armed forces. He should become the first three-time champion in the 58 years of the tournament.

Joe Velez of Seattle, Washington, the star of Monday night's show, moved along in the 135 pound class with a decision over Kid DePaul of Pittsburgh. Velez is a paralytic with a wasted left leg but it apparently doesn't hamper him in his ring work as he chased DePaul all over the squared circle.

Hawaii, with one title already cinched, also has a good chance to grab off top honors in the 147 class with the clever Robert Takeshita looming as a heavy favorite.

Twenty-four bouts are scheduled for this evening, starting promptly at 6:45 p. m.

X-Ray Reveals Ott Uninjured

DANVILLE, Va., April 10 (AP)—Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants, injured yesterday during an exhibition baseball game with the Cleveland Indians, will rejoin the team today at Richmond.

The Giant manager was knocked down in yesterday's ball game by a pitched ball which struck him back of the ear. Ott remained in his room here last night while the rest of the Giants departed for Richmond by train. X-ray pictures revealed no injuries.

Change Name of Hartford to Chiefs

HARTFORD, Ct., April 10 (AP)—The Hartford team of the Eastern Baseball League will be known henceforth as the Chiefs, it was announced today, ending a dispute of several years' standing as to whether the proper appellation was the Senators or the Laurels.

The Albany team will be called the Senators here as it has been elsewhere throughout the circuit.

Training Camp Briefs

By the Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. — Baseball makes its 1946 bow today in Ohio's capital with the Yankees and the Dodgers tangling in an exhibition contest expected to draw more than 10,000 fans. Yank Manager Joe McCarthy nominated Charley Stancu for mound duty and Joe Hatten was Manager Leo Durocher's pitching selection.

COLUMBIA, S. C. — The Phillies, who have been outthumping Washington pretty regularly, will have to start beating them today if they're to even their spring series. The Nats won, 4-2, on three hits yesterday to take a 4-1 lead in the exhibition series.

FREDERICK, Md. — The Athletics resume their series with Baltimore here today. The A's had a picnic yesterday at Merceburg, Pa., where they thumped Merceburg Academy, 12-1.

WICHITA, Kan. — The Cubs, lagging by four games, will send Iliam Bithorn against the Browns today in the semifinal of their 20-game exhibition Marathon. Denny Galehouse will be gunning for the Browns 12th victory over the Cubs. Joe Grace pooled a 13th inning homer to beat the Cubs, 3-2 yesterday and spoiled a four-hit stint by Hank Borowy who hurled the first nine frames.

TULSA, Okla. — Hal Trosky, left-handed power hitter, will try switch-hitting for the first time in years in the White Sox's waning exhibition feud with the Pirates.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Ex-Paratrooper Johnny Grodzicki, who still wears a steel brace on his right leg while pitching as a result of a wound suffered in Germany a year ago, is scheduled to make his 1946 debut on the mound for the Cardinals today against the Oklahoma City Indians. He is slated to relieve Harry Brecheen, a native Oklahoman, who will start for the Red Birds.

WICHITA — For the first time since his short-lived jump to the Mexican League, Vern Stephens was returned to the shortstop position with the Browns yesterday in the exhibition contest with the Cubs. Mark Christman, who hadn't been doing so badly himself at the post, was moved over to his old headquarters at third base.

Lack of R-Wingers Cost Bruins Series

By FRED HOEY

MONTREAL, April 10 — As the Bruins bowed out of the Stanley Cup series, losing 6 to 3, it was very obvious that before another hockey campaign opens Art Ross and Dit Clapper will have to dig up some right wings. Throughout the play-off series, both in Detroit and here, it was apparent that weakness on the right end was holding down the team. Left wingers have been used on that right spot but they are too often caught on the wrong side when vital plays develop.

Added to Mr. Ross' woes is the probable retirement of Bobby Bauer, a real classy right winger.

The Bruins lost the fifth game because they were completely outskated. The Bruins were trying to match the Frenchmen's speed instead of hitting them with checks as they did in all previous games. That was their Waterloo.

It was a pretty game to watch. The hard hitting was missing, and team work was at a premium. The Canadiens were pretty to behold, especially that Lach-Richard-Blake line. When this line starts down the ice, one sees the most perfect combination in hockey in action. They were simply immense in the finale.

Referee King Clancy let everything go. He realized the importance of the match and gave the boys plenty of latitude. But for all this generous officiating, the game was not rough. There was considerable boarding such as develops in the average game but nothing vicious developed.

Near the end of the game, Murray Henderson was struck below the mouth during a wild melee around the Boston net. This required the attention of Dr. Tom Kelley, team physician.

The Bruins trailed 3 to 2 at the end of the first period. This was a wide open stanza with neither side paying any attention to checking. The Bruins came back in the second period with the equalizer by Milt Schmidt.

The third period found the Canadiens going to town in true French fashion while the Bruins appeared to be careless. Before the Canadiens got through swinging, they had netted three goals and the game.

The Bruins put on a good show in this series but couldn't match the Canadiens. Smart and intelligent play has its high place in hockey but, when one comes down to the real requisite, it's plain speed and the Canadiens had an over-abundance of it.

The Bruins will leave tonight for Boston, arriving tomorrow morning. The show is over. The better team won.

Schoolboy Hurls 2d Perfect Game

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 10 (AP)—Charlie Auerbach, a 17-year-old William Penn High School student, today was hailed in Pennsylvania scholastic sports circles for hurling his second no-hit, no-run game.

The youthful sensation, in four games this season, has allowed no runs in 26 innings pitched. He has allowed a total of three hits, walked three and struck out 57 of 86 men he has faced.

Spy Song Steps Out Fast Half Miler

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 10 (AP)—Dixiana's Spy Song, one of the better liked Kentucky Derby eligibles, was clocked at :48.4 in a half-mile workout today, then loafed out the remainder of the three-quarters of a mile in 1:17.

William Helis' Rippey was timed at 1:15.3 for three-quarters with :25.3 for the quarter and :50.3 for the half-mile.

Suffolk Auction to Give Color and Excitement

By JACK CONWAY

THE PUBLIC auction of the controlling stock of Suffolk Downs on May 1 is expected to be one of the most exciting, colorful affairs in the history of the American turf. It is the first time that a race track that is in a solvent condition and which has earned large sums of money for its owners has been placed on the auction block.

Chas. F. Adams

This unusual situation caused Bill Kyne, general manager of the Bay Meadows race track in California, Atty. Bill Hornblower and Bobby Ahearn to come here from the West Coast to look over the situation. It has also interested two New York groups and at least one powerful Boston syndicate. It is expected that when the Suffolk Downs stock owned by the Aldred Investment Trust is placed on the auction block as a result of an order by Judge George Sweeney of the Federal District Court that there will be a wild scramble to get control of the stock of the track.

While there has been some talk of bids going close to $2,000,000 expert auditors and observers of political situations have also been giving their opinion on the value of the East Boston racing plant. While it is natural for race track managers and persons close to the running end of the game to become enthusiastic about acquiring Suffolk Downs, the auditors, tax experts and political experts have been pointing out some of the obstacles an investor will be obliged to overcome before he can get his money back.

Obstacles in Path

Such matters as these have tended to chill some of the early enthusiasm:

1—Racing goes on the ballot in Massachusetts during the coming Fall. Ordinarily racing would be certain to get a big vote but a few "fixed" races such as the steeplechase affair they had in Maryland last Fall could cause a disgusted public to vote racing out.

2—Even with a reduction in the excess profit taxes, Suffolk Downs will still have to pay huge amounts of money in taxes.

3—The people who acquire control of the East Boston track will have to pay most of their dividends to the federal government and to various state governments. When Charles F. Adams owned a large block of Suffolk Downs stock, he only realized 15 cents on every dollar he received. The balance went for taxes.

Long Pull Ahead

4—Under the Massachusetts law a track less than a mile in distance can be built within 50 miles of Suffolk Downs. If there were a conflict of dates, the East Boston track would suffer.

5—Mounting purses and operating expenses will reduce profits.

6—Competition from New Jersey and other tracks will make it difficult to get better horses. The public tires of seeing the same horses run day after day.

7—In the event of a falling off in employment people will have less money to wager. While the mutual handle at Suffolk Downs averaged more than $1,000,000 a day last year there were occasions in the early days of the track that the mutual handle dropped below $300,000.

8—It took Suffolk Downs seven years to pay off its original bonds even though its top officers worked without compensation. The track cost $2,500,000 and with a higher cost, and heavy taxes, there would be a long pull ahead for the new owners.

9—A five per cent city tax on the mutual handle, as proposed by Mayor Curley, would create an additional burden which in time would reduce the mutual handle. Even better, as has been proved at Tropical Park at Coral Gables, Fla., tire of going against 16 per cent. The present take is ten per cent plus breakage which runs close to one per cent while the additional take would lift the burden on the bettor to over 16 per cent. One cannot keep banging his head against a stone wall indefinitely without getting hurt.

10—Increased interest in baseball this year which is going to cause many people to go to see Red Sox, Yanks, Braves and Cardinals in preference to watching the bangtails in action.

One might add that the little lady may insist that you get home to dinner earlier unless, of course, she too, is trying to pick a winner in the last race.

Apart from a certified check for $100,000 and another certified check for $250,000 in the event one is the highest bidder, and the balance in cash when called for, there are still quite a few other problems when one decides he wishes to buy a race track. The financial expert who said that Suffolk Downs controlling stock is only worth $1,500,000 may know what he is talking about.

Auctions, however, are peculiar things, and it is difficult to determine what the final answer will be when groups with money start bidding for something.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By Jimmy Hatlo

Pytlak Rated No. 2 Sox Catcher

By HERB FINNEGAN

Frankie Pytlak signed with Buffalo upon graduation from Masten Park High, Buffalo, in '28. He caught pro ball until he enlisted in the Navy in April, '42. At 36, he returned to Fenway Park last September a "tired old man." "He's through," all agreed. All except Pytlak himself. His rejuvenation has been one of the miracles of the Red Sox conditioning period. He'll stick, and he'll see a lot of service.

"Legs are all-important," Pytlak explained, "so when I returned to Buffalo last fall I started running. I wore out the board track at the 'Y.' played squash, racquets to sharpen my eyes and regain my level swing. I could do the '100' in 10:30 in high school. I can break 11 seconds today."

Pytlak's running caused plenty of comment at Sarasota. He'd run around the distant outfield stretches so often his teammates wondered if he were training for the Marathon. When Win Green saw him running backward one day he cracked: "Must think he's Tunney training for the Dempsey fight."

"There are times when a catcher whips off his mask and circles under a high foul that he becomes dizzy," Pytlak explained. "Running backwards cures that dizzy feeling. Let 'em laugh. I'm in shape."

How different from the spring of '42. Pytlak reported late that season. His right foot was covered with "planters' warts." That gave everybody a laugh but Frankie who eventually had them burned out while in the Navy. They were so sore he couldn't wear a spiked shoe.

The draft was on his mind, too. He registered in Cleveland, where he had previously played. He took his physical in Sarasota. But it was his home city of Buffalo that placed him in 1-A and it was very mystifying to the little (5-7, 156) catcher. So he left the club at Churston, W. Va., and enlisted at Great Lakes. He caught for Mickey Cochrane's team "but we played only 10 games against big leaguers," he said. "And during '43, '44 and '45 I played no baseball."

Frankie was transferred from Great Lakes to Buffalo and placed on recruiting duty. He had been something of a typist in high school and became an expert in the service.

He has his idiosyncracies. For example, early in the season as he was donning his togs, he asked Cronin if we're going to catch the full nine innings. "What difference does it make?" Cronin wanted to know. "Just wanted to pace myself," Pytlak replied. Cronin enjoyed that.

"I knew he was a boxer," Green shouted when he heard the story. Frankie married since he entered the service, like Earl Johnson, Charlie Wagner, Paul Campbell, Bill Butland, Mickey Harris, et al. He didn't bring his wife to camp but he never had a dull moment.

Since Tom Daly used to beat him at checkers he brushed up on the game until he became quite expert. He was exasperated when he found roomie Randy Hefflin was a little better. He likes golf. He breaks 80 occasionally "but I play for the exercise," he says. He smokes a pipe. He also plays the harmonica, sometimes to the annoyance of his teammates. He'll drop everything, however, when "Lefty," his favorite radio program, is on.

Pytlak's a smart catcher, throws well and can hit, though he's no long distance hitter. For three seasons running he batted over .300 for Cleveland. Jamming with Oscar Vitt (as who didn't?) Frankie was traded to Boston after the '40 season, was No. 1 catcher in '41.

"I want to be with a pennant winner before I quit," he said seriously, "and I think this team has a good chance. Know something, he snapped and he went back to his first season in pro ball.

Buffalo, under Derby Bill Clymer, was leading the International League on the last day of the season. Buffalo won its game and still lost the pennant.

"Rochester played a double-header the same day," Pytlak explained. Herman Bell pitched two 1-0 shutouts, and Rochester took the flag by a few percentage points. "That's the closest any club I played on came to a pennant, and I don't want to quit until the Sox finish on top."

Prediction: Pytlak will wind up No. 2 catcher behind Hal Wagner. Eddie McGah's index finger on his throwing hand has given him so much trouble the Polish lad has hopped ahead of him. Pytlak should catch about 50 games. He'll give a good account of himself. His hair is as gray as Hughie Duffy's but his body is as trim as a 23-year-old's.

Skeet Shooting Being Revived

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

The sport of skeet shooting, a medium through which thousands of servicemen were taught the art of gunnery, is going to stage a real come-back in Massachusetts in the near future. A group of local sportsmen have taken over the former premises of the Old Hilltop Club, at Holliston, where the grounds will be open this week-end to all interested in skeet.

According to Ed Matsuki, of Waban, former president of Massachusetts S. S. A., those responsible for the inception of this new organization have incorporated, and several of the enthusiasts held a meeting last night to formulate plans for the sport.

"The grounds are in surprisingly good condition," stated Ed, "and the two fine skeet fields will soon echo to the crack of guns. We have acquired a nice clubhouse, too, but there is always room for expansion. Membership in the club is now open."

"Many of our group are skeet shooters who have been looking for a home," he added.

One of the sparkplugs behind this revival is the Warren Beard of Newton, an expert marksman himself. . . . And, of course, National Champion Dick Shaughnessy of Dedham will lend his guiding hand. . . . Dick, by the way, is better than ever; he's been breaking 100's every week-end.

The Hilltop terrain was the scene of many famous championship shoots before the war, and it is hoped that numerous such events may be conducted at this spot again.

OUTDOOR O. O.'s—The Ipswich Fish and Game Ass'n held a trap and skeet shoot at their fields in Ipswich last Sunday. . . . M. Doyle, Lawrence, turned in the top trap score, 24 points. . . . W. Labombard, Nashua, N. H., and W. Peterson, Lynn, each had 23. . . . In skeet, Doyle also carried off the honors, bagging 22. . . . J. Sweeney, Lawrence, had 14. . . . Just back from three years service in the Navy is Tom Freier, who will handle all kinds of live bait at his brother Bill's shop in Braintree.

2500 Will Compete in Boston 'Juniors'

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Building up a program that is bound to produce its share of high school athletes in quick order, Jimmy Duffy, assistant director of physical education in the Boston school ranks, has released his spring schedules that will have close to 2500 boys in organized sports activities in the intermediate and elementary schools.

Baseball, softball and track will be conducted entirely on a high school basis with championship playoffs.

Twenty-four intermediate schools—operating in four divisions as in basketball—will work through a 60-game schedule with the titlists of each group moving

Johnson Next On Pacino List

By RINGSIDE

Larry Pacino of Roxbury, who showed great punching ability as he won four straight bouts, will try to make it five in a row when he meets Johnny Johnson of Philadelphia in one of the four ten-round bouts on the Goodwin A. C. card at the Garden on Friday night.

Al Evans, Joey Greco, Jimmy Pettie and Tony Petro were Pacino's victims as he rushed out front in the fist parade. Johnson fought Joey LaMotta here recently and is expected to make things interesting for Pacino.

Johnny Cesario of the North End, who twice collared with Gus Mehl in what proved to be stirring bouts, will tangle with George LaRover of Philadelphia in another ten, while Joey LaMotta, a two fisted fighter like Brother Jake, will have to show at his best to win over Joe Blackwood. The latter recently gave Al (Red) Priest a hard battle.

Meanwhile, Priest is training for his ten-round session with "Jiggs" Donahue of Philadelphia which will top a Sharkey A. A. card at the Arena, Tuesday night. . . . Johnny Seaman, Quincy, will return to the ring wars in an eight round bout with the Brown Bomber as an opponent.

If Henri DeGlane wins the world's heavyweight championship from Frank Sexton at a Paul Bowser mat show at the Arena tomorrow night, he says he will meet all-comers. DeGlane, a former title holder, has many backers who believe that, now he has studied Sexton's style, he will win.

Tigers Showed B's Weak Spots

By JOE CASHMAN

NEW YORK, April 10—The bright lights of Broadway were blinking at the Braves as they stopped off here overnight before going up to Hartford for their second spring reunion with the Red Sox tomorrow.

But there were few bright lights among the Braves in the nine-game series against the Detroit Tigers which was concluded in Evansville yesterday, with a 4 to 3 Tiger triumph. Jim Wallace was a home-town hero for eight innings. He had a 3 to 1 lead on a 6-hit performance entering the final, fatal frame, when he was conked for four runs at the Tigers rallied for a 4 to 3 win. It left Detroit with a 7-2 margin in the series.

On the favorable side of the Tiger Series, the Braves could look back on the brilliant 1 to 0 shutout which Johnny Sain pitched in Birmingham. They could point to Bama Rowell's 419 batting average in nine games against the best pitched staff in the American League. Johnny Hopp's 324 mark and a .286 average for Connie Ryan were also impressive.

However, slender Jimmy Wallace, Southworth's prize pitcher, failed on three occasions to halt the world champions. He managed to stop Hank Greenberg for the first time in the series yesterday. But he felt that ex-major Billy Hitchcock was pulling rank on ex-private Wallace, when Hitchcock lambasted him for a triple in the closing chapter at Evansville. "And right in front of my home folks," wailed Wallace.

The prolonged batting slumps of Tommy Holmes and Nanny Fernandez must be disappointing to Manager Billy Southworth. Holmes, who led the National League in runs batted in last year, didn't drive home a single tally against the Tigers. He batted a puny 217.

Fernandez, who had a reputation of being a big power hitter before entering the Army, was even worse. He managed a lone tally, single in 26 batting attempts for a .039 average. He's gone hitless his last 23 times at bat. But Southworth is apparently sticking with both Holmes and Fernandez, hoping they regain their lost eyes, swings or attitudes when the league season starts in Boston, Tuesday.

As expected, Southworth learned a great deal in the nine tussles with the world champions. He's still hopeful of strengthening his team before the bell rings. He's planning a long distance telephone bills in three figures. He wants to swing deals or make purchases but his rival clubs are as yet unwilling to listen.

Southworth will start his current ace Sain against the Sox in Hartford tomorrow. Phil Masi will be behind the plate. Two days ago, he said that Bob Detweiler would replace Fernandez at third but he changed his mind on Nanny.

The boss told me:—

"Too Old
For the Job!"

1. "Things sure looked mighty gloomy the night I told Mary the bad news!" But she said, "Let's face the facts, Tom! There's just one thing that makes you seem older than you are. And that's those loose dental plates of yours! They slip around and make you so self-conscious and miserable. There must be something that will hold them in place. And we're going to find out what it is!"

2. The very next day our druggist gave us the answer. He said, "It's a crime to let loose plates ruin the best years of your life when you can use this remarkable dentist's discovery called Staze to hold your plates comfortably secure all day long!" Then he smiled and added, "I use Staze myself. It's a blessing I wouldn't be without a single day."

3. "Here we are celebrating my new job with our first steak dinner in years! Thanks to Staze (and our druggist) I'm like a new man since I can talk, laugh and chew without discomfort or fear of my plates slipping. So listen — if you have loose plates that are making you look and feel older than you are . . . be sensible, try Staze yourself!"

Dentist's Remarkable Discovery Guaranteed to Hold Plates Comfortably Secure All Day — or Your Money-Back!

No matter how long you've had your plates or how badly they fit . . . no matter how many unsatisfactory "powders" you've tried — you'll experience an entirely new feeling of comfort and security with Staze. Yes, those plates of yours should feel, work, and look more like strong, healthy natural teeth — as though they were really a part of you. You certainly owe it to yourself to try Staze — particularly when you have everything to gain! For Staze must hold your uppers and lowers comfortably secure — not for just a few hours — but all day, or you'll get your money back!

Discover for Yourself this Easy, Proven Way to Forget Loose-Plate Troubles and Worries!

Just think how grand you'll feel when your plates stay comfortably secure from the time you put them in until you take them out . . . how wonderful to say goodbye to sore irritated gums . . . how marvelous to enjoy eating and chewing all the foods you like . . . to talk and laugh without fear your plates might slip, and cause embarrassment.

Those are the wonderful benefits grateful thousands acclaim . . . the very ones you can confidently expect when you use Staze on your plates each morning.

1. Staze not only helps prevent chafing by holding your plates securely in place, but also quickly relieves soreness by forming a s-o-o-t-h-i-n-g "comfort cushion" under plates.

2. Easier and much more pleasant to use than messy "powders". Spreads evenly over plates by itself. No "lumping".

3. Staze seals around plate edges to help prevent annoying food particles from getting in between plates and mouth to cause irritation and unpleasant "denture breath".

4. Most economical because it lasts longer, and there's no waste when you use it. (Costs less than a penny a day.)

5. Vegetable ingredients in Staze are absolutely pure. Nothing to upset your stomach or cause nausea. Safe for any denture material. Approved by Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Don't let loose plates continue to make your life miserable! Get an introductory 35¢ tube of Staze at your druggist tomorrow.

Discover for yourself why all your days may be "Happy days with Staze."

Escape Here Blocked By Fire

A fireman stands on the charred stairway leading to the third floor in the Colonial Chambers apartments, Back Bay. Raging flames on this stairway prevented the escape from their third-floor apartment, of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wassell and their three children. A fiery hall and stairway leading to the fourth floor blocked their way to escape over the roof. They perished in the building with two others, Frank LaPete and his sister, Vera, fourth-floor occupants. An eighth victim, Patrolman Robert Maher, who leaped from a window, died later.

Michigan Race Betting Upheld

LANSING, Mich., April 10 (AP)—Declaring that a race track is not a "public nuisance per se (within itself)," the State Supreme Court upheld today the constitutionality of horse racing and pari-mutuel betting in Michigan.

In Detroit, the racing association which operates the fair grounds track, immediately announced that a spring meeting of 49 days will open Saturday, May 25, and run through July 20.

The court reversed a Wayne County (Detroit) Circuit Court decision prohibiting racing at the fair grounds, holding there was no satisfactory proof that the operation of the race track resulted in conditions affecting the public health or morals to any material extent.

The case was brought in circuit court by Edward J. Rohan and his wife, who lived near the fair grounds and contended that operation of horse racing constituted a public nuisance.

"We are convinced," the Supreme Court said, "that under the great weight of authority, pari-mutuel betting on horses is not a lottery."

"In a lottery, the winner is determined by lot or chance and a participant has no opportunity to exercise his reason, judgment, sagacity or discretion. In a horse race the winner is not determined by chance alone, as the condition, speed and endurance of the horse and the skill and management of the rider, are factors affecting the result of the race."
